

Miss Floy A. Ray Placed on Probation By Court Here

Miss Floy A. Ray, 52-year-old church worker and secretary who allegedly embezzled $14,450 to play the "bug," was sentenced to serve 24 months by Judge A. L. Etheridge, in Fulton superior court, and then placed on probation.

Grand Jury Hears Probe Witnesses

The Fulton county grand jury yesterday continued its investigation of the administration of former Governor E. D. Rivers, but steadfastly refused to give any inkling as to the nature of the evidence.

Among the witnesses heard yesterday were E. H. (Fat) Elrod, a Standard Oil official; C. H. Kilpatrick, an employee in the state purchasing department during the Rivers administration; A. W. Evans, an employee in the state purchasing department now; B. H. Reynolds, formerly a foreman in the maintenance shops of the State Highway Department at East Point, and G. E. Bellah, formerly general foreman in the same shops.

Goodwin Puts L. P. Whitfield On Suspension

State Investigator Indicted on Lottery Violation Charge.

Major John E. Goodwin, director of the Department of Public Safety, yesterday ordered the suspension of L. P. Whitfield, investigator in the Bureau of Investigation, who was indicted by a Fulton county grand jury on lottery charges.

Whitfield was among the lottery suspects indicted through testimony of Miss Floy A. Ray, Atlanta businesswoman who admitted she stole $14,500 to play the lottery. Goodwin first declared yesterday he did not know what action he would take against Whitfield, pointing out an indictment did not "mean anything." Later, however, he amended his position, picked up the telephone in the Governor's office and ordered the employee's suspension.

The safety commissioner said Whitfield had been employed by the Bureau of Investigation for approximately seven months. He worked principally on bad check cases, Goodwin said.

The commissioner added he understood Whitfield was working as a private detective on the Ray case when he came with the Department of Public Safety. As an investigator he received a salary of $125 per month. He was suspended until further notice, which meant, Goodwin said, that he would be taken off the payroll until his guilt or innocence is established.

Hoover Sees New A. E. F. As 'Futile Waste'

Says U. S. Could Not Break Stalemate In Europe.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Former President Hoover tonight opposed sending American troops to Europe, contending such action would not only be "futile waste of American life," but would also endanger economic freedom in the United States itself. He spoke before the Union League Club.

At the same time he called for a halt to what he said was an attempt to condition American minds artificially for war. Describing the European war as a "military stalemate," Mr. Hoover said: "We can dismiss at once the bogie that Hitler can invade the Western Hemisphere against the modern development of the air plane and our Navy either now or 10 years hence."

"But could the United States break this military stalemate in Europe by adding our military power to that of the British? We can now observe that Russia could not overcome the German Army, fighting on her own soil behind her own fortifications with her transportation wholly on land and on inside lines. "Sending an army from America to the continent of Europe itself today would not be like that of the first World War. This time we would have to land over-powering forces all at once. For to do that we would need to prepare 5,000,000 to 8,000,000 American boys in addition to the British. It would take us more than five years to build the shipping to transport them."

Air Corps Orders Incendiary Bombs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(INS) War Department officials tonight revealed the Air Corps has initiated the purchase of 25,000 incendiary bombs.

This huge order, for which sealed bids already have been received, is being handled by the Chemical Warfare Service in five areas, including Pittsburgh, Boston, New York, Chicago and San Francisco. About 5,000,000 of the bombs will be purchased in each of the districts. They will be manufactured by private contractors. The bombs will weigh four pounds each, and presumably will be patterned after the types now being used in the European war.

REGISTRATION SET. Citizens in the East Point area who failed to register weeks ago will be given an opportunity to do so between 4 o'clock this afternoon and 9 o'clock tonight at the Elks' Club, on Cleveland avenue, opposite the fire department, Mayor E. G. Laney said last night.

Martin Relates Dive Bomber Ride Sensations

gling or thumb at the pilot like a hitch-hiker. To our surprise, he nodded and we climbed in.

The only other nonmilitary personnel on the big seven-man bomber was the sergeant's dog, a sad-eyed mutt of bulldog descent named Major. Before we had had time to scratch Major behind the ears more than twice, we were landing at Raleigh field.

There the 8th Bombardment group from Savannah was awaiting flight orders. It had been out on a mission at dawn, but had had no more to do all day, and the seven pilots were getting a little bored. They were sitting around in front of the operations tent, playing poker and reading magazines, and looking unhappy.

At 4:25 the attack call came. A young lieutenant with a moustache stuck his head out of operations tent, yelled "To horse, you guys, and make it snappy," and the first thing we knew we were trotting across the field, wearing somebody's helmet and goggles, headed for a line of snub-nosed, short-winged ships, the Army's famous A-24, American version of the German Stuka.

Mission Explained.

Lieutenant R. F. Strickland, flight commander, explained the mission as we trotted out. "Blue command," he said, had reports from its observer planes about a heavy concentration of armored forces moving along a road southwest of Cheraw. (The Reds who captured us, we remembered, were headed down the Cheraw.) Our job was to find them, conk them with a 500-pound bomb from each of our seven planes and then scoot for home, rejoicing. They were about 90 miles away, a 30-minute flight, and I figured to be back just after dark.

We scrambled up into the gunner's seat and a ground crew man stuck his head in. "You slide the hood back in flight," he said. "If you have to get out, yank this lever, shove the hook forward, snap your safety belt loose and dive out. Be sure and go out to the left. There a radio wire on the right that will foul your chute if you go that way."

We were still trying to get the safety belt fastened when the ship whizzed into the air. Which probably explains how we made the error we did make. We snapped it on first, then strapped the parachute leg straps on over it. Which meant that if we had had to bail out we'd never have made it. We took the combined effort of two men to get us untangled after we had gotten back home.

It was a pretty, but uneventful, flight going down to the attack. The A-24 is a fast, smooth-riding, but exceptionally noisy ship, and the shriek of the wind around the hood makes an unholy howling. We flew at a thousand feet going down, straight into the western sun. The purple mist of evening had begun to settle over the dun earth below, and visibility was rapidly growing less. For that reason, to be sure we hit our target, we were going to make a short dive, plunging down from 5,000 feet and pulling out at 1,000, instead of going up to 10,000 before the dive.

We flew in a "V" going down, in tight formation, with the wing tip of the following plane snug up against our wing. It looks simple from the ground, but it requires supreme concentration. We watched the pilots to our right and left and they never took their eyes off the leader's wing, except for brief, split-second glimpses to the front. That way, they said later, you live to fly in another formation.

The pilot who starts rubber-necking around the sky is going to kill himself and somebody else too.

Over the Pee Dee, nearing our objective, the ships banked into echelon and began to climb. The dive bomber is a good climber. It can go upstairs 2,000 feet a minute. We took it easy, nosing up at 1,200 feet a minute. The needle crept up to 5,000 and stayed. The squadron slipped into column, nose to tail.

Waggle Wings.

These signals to change formation are given by waggles of the wings, hardly perceptible from the ground, but the layman in a ship, not knowing it's coming, nearly jumps out of the thing when it first happens. It feels like a wing has suddenly dropped off.

Over the general territory where the foe was supposed to be, Lieutenant Strickland peered

Student Killed Here When Run Over by Truck

Robert N. Curry, 14-year-old Boys' High school freshman, of 270 McKenzie drive, was killed when he was run over by a truck at Boulevard and Angier avenue, police reported.

According to police, the youth was riding a bicycle, holding on to the truck, and his wheel became entangled with the vehicle, throwing him beneath the wheels of the truck.

The death pushes to 33 the number of fatal traffic accidents thus far this year, the same number who died on Atlanta streets during the same period in 1940.

A case of reckless driving was booked against Jim Ranier, Negro driver of the truck. Patrolmen W. F. Jones and E. G. Cowan, of the traffic bureau, investigated the accident.

Curry was pronounced dead upon arrival at Georgia Baptist hospital.

Curry lived with his mother, Mrs. Arline H. Curry. In addition to his mother, he is survived by his father, Floyd H. Curry; a sister, Mrs. J. H. Lowe, of Washington, D. C., and two brothers, James L. and Jack R. Curry.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Awtry & Lowndes.

MANCHESTER SINGING. MANCHESTER, Ga., Nov. 19.—The Southern Singing Convention will be held here on Sunday, November 23. It is announced by J. L. Dean and William Routon.

Why "BC" Relieves Headache & Neuralgia So Quickly....

The effective, quick-acting ingredients in the "BC" formula are readily assimilated. This quick assimilation helps you get extra-fast relief from headaches, neuralgia pains, muscular aches and functional periodic pains. Keep a 10c or 25c package of "BC" handy. Be prepared to get prompt relief when minor pains strike. Use only as directed. Consult a physician when pains persist.

Barber Shop Quartet Singers Organize Chapter in Atlanta

Those close harmonies of "Sweet Adeline," "Down by the Old Mill Stream" and other favorites of the day of handle-bar mustaches, horseshair sofas and bicycles built for two last night came from the Robert Fulton hotel, where nostalgic Atlantans organized an Atlanta chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

There was gray hair and sparse hair among the organizers who gathered for the initial meeting. And there was a s'inking of youngsters who had heard their fathers tell about barber shop chords. Before the festivities were over, definite war was declared on modern boogie-woogie.

R. H. Sturges, Georgia's only member of the national organization, presided. He explained growth of the revival of the barber shop quartet type of singing the old songs since the national society was started in 1938. Before the program was over, several quartets tentatively were organized, and they, with others to be formed in the future, will strive to compete in the 1942 national convention, to be held at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Leo J. Ethier was elected president pro tem; Sturges, treasurer, and Ralph Crutchfield, secretary. The next meeting will be held in about two weeks, at the call of Ethier.

Navy Mothers' Club Shows Film Here

More than 200 mothers and fathers of Atlanta boys in the Navy saw a special film last night at the Navy Mothers' Club meeting in the Service Men's Center in the Kimball House. The movie was shown by R. T. Easley, of the Macon naval recruiting station.

Mrs. R. H. Grantham, president of the group, said that each day mothers are at the bus station and terminal to help Navy boys with a few hours' stopover here have an entertaining time. They give the boys movie tickets, take them to lunch or dinner, and show them about town, if there is time. A community sing will be held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon for all service men, Mrs. Grantham said.

Words In War Will Be Feature of Teachers' Council

The part played by language, in printed propaganda and in radio speeches, in the "war of words" that is a large part of the present world conflict, will be one of the principal subjects considered at the 31st annual meeting of the National Council of Teachers of English, which opens today at the Biltmore hotel.

Speakers and group discussions during the three-day sessions will emphasize the importance of a thorough knowledge of language in a "war of nerves." Employment of twisted meanings, false conclusions and similar devices to sway public opinion by Axis powers and democracies alike, will be analyzed by leading English teachers from all parts of the United States.

2,500 Will Attend.

Approximately 2,500 educators from nearly every state began gathering yesterday for the meeting. The council is one of the largest teaching organizations in the world, and the meeting is the first since 1932 to be held in the South.

Headlining the sessions will be noted literary figures. John Erskine, famous author, will speak on "My America" at the annual banquet tomorrow night at the Atlanta Athletic Club. Herbert Agar, editor, will address the convention on "American Traditions and the World Revolution," at the annual luncheon Saturday. Olive Lindsay Wakefield will describe the work of her poet brother in the South.

a talk on "Vachel Lindsay and the American Soul."

"Our Defense of American Traditions" will be the keynote of the convention, in which Atlantans will have a leading role. In addition to acting as hosts, Atlanta and Georgia educators will participate in the daily general sessions and group discussions.

Etheridge to Speak.

Willie Shaw Etheridge, formerly of Macon, will be one of the principal speakers at the annual banquet. Dr. Stella Center, of Forsyth, former teacher at Bessie Tift College and now professor at New York University, will speak at the opening session tonight, as will also Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of the Atlanta public schools.

Dr. Annie McCowen, former student at Bessie Tift College, will talk on "How to Develop Skill in Communication," at Saturday's session. Andrew T. Weaver, graduate of Emory University, will discuss "The Place of Speech in a Democracy," tomorrow.

Ralph Ramsey, secretary of the Georgia Education Association, will speak Saturday on "Stimulating Youth to Observe, Think and Write." H. H. Bixler, director of research and guidance in the Atlanta public schools, also will speak on Saturday. His subject will be "Creative Teaching of Spelling."

Wade in Discussion.

John D. Wade, professor of English at the University of Georgia, will discuss "A Bread Ration for the Emergency," at a luncheon tomorrow.

John E. Drewry, head of the school of journalism, University of Georgia, will address a group meeting tomorrow on "The American Newspaper in Time of Crisis," and Floyd K. Baskette, of Emory University, "The American News Front."

Topics to be discussed in the 37 scheduled conferences and meetings range from international relations to radio and television, and will cover almost the entire field of English instruction. Atlantans will direct many of the conferences and participate in all.

The general chairman of the convention committee is Paul Farmer, of Atlanta Boys' High School, assisted by a group of teachers from the metropolitan area. Several hundred Atlanta teachers will act as hostesses.

AUTHORS OF CHILDREN'S BOOKS TO BE GUESTS AT TEA
Editors and authors of children's books attending the convention of the National Council of Teachers of English will be guests at a tea at 3:45 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the children's room of the Carnegie Library.

Children selected from the upper grades of elementary schools and the boys' and girls' department of the library will be hosts. Members of the board of education, trustees of the library and school officials also will be guests.

British Launch African Drive and Gain 50 Miles from Sidi Omar straight into Cyrenaica, Libya's eastern section.

The surprise was declared to be complete.

The Axis forces recoiled, startled and unsure whether this was a real offensive or merely another of the frequent sorties which have kept the desert warfare alive throughout the almost insufferable summer.

The Real Thing.

They soon learned that this was the real thing. The thunder of bombs from American-made planes, the rattle of gunfire and the clank and roar of American-made tanks never ceased.

For the first time in this war, the best of British fighting forces were pitted in all the elements against an elite German army force which the Nazis and Fascists have built up painstakingly over the last few months despite constant harassment by the Royal Navy in the Mediterranean.

The British refused to minimize the ability or brains of the battle-tested Germans, but said that a striking success for British arms here might well knock Italy out of the war, since it would provide near-by bases for the RAF to bomb Italy nightly.

The Germans are known to have at least two divisions (up to 30,000 men) of armored troops between Tobruk and Bardia, and the Italians had at least one division south of Tobruk.

This apparently was the awaited winter desert war by which the British expect to throw the Germans and Italians out of North Africa and reach the borders of French Tunisia.

Text of Communiqué.
A British Imperial Army communiqué said:

"Imperial forces began at the first light of November 18 an advance into Cyrenaica (Libya) from the coast east of Salum as far south as Jarabub.

"While pressure was rapidly exerted on the Axis forces holding defensive positions from Halfaya to Sidi Omar, British armored formations supported by New Zealand, South African and Indian troops crossed the frontier south of Sidi Omar.

"So skillfully had our fighting troops been inducted into their concentration areas, so good were arrangements for deception, camouflage and dispersal, coupled with support of our air forces, that enemy observation and interference from the air prior to and during the advance yesterday were negligible.

Advance in Rain.
"Yesterday evening in a heavy rain our forces had penetrated over 50 miles into enemy territory. Up to that time little or no enemy opposition had been encountered. Operations today have continued according to plan."

Halfaya, or "Hellfire Pass," is near Salum on the coast and the British lines stretched directly southward to Jarabub, 140 miles away, or roughly paralleling the Egyptian-Libyan border.

The 50-mile penetration officially claimed apparently occurred just south of Sidi Omar, 50 miles south of Halfaya, and was spearheaded toward Tobruk, where a besieged British garrison has held out since April.

American Planes.
The British were fighting with a considerable number of American-made planes and tanks which have been reaching the Middle East ever since President Roosevelt opened the Red Sea to American shipping after the British smashed the Fascists in Italian East Africa.

The British, too, were bolstered considerably by thousands of South African, New Zealand, Australian and Indian troops released from service in Ethiopia, where they had defeated a sizable Italian army.

Thanks to United States aid, the British now have more planes in Egypt's western desert than the entire RAF possessed at the beginning of the war.

The American plane reinforcements consist of the Glenn Martin Maryland bombers, the Curtiss pursuit planes called Tomahawks by the British, and the naval air arm is using Gruman Martlets. In addition Lockheed and Douglas liners are being used for rear-line transports.

Striking Force.
Word that General Sir Claude Auchinleck was not only on the march but was well on his way with perhaps the finest single striking force of the military establishment broke upon the world at a critical hour in the struggle on the Russian front.

News of the drive followed by only a few days renewed reports that the Vichy government was about to grant Germany and Italy bases in French North Africa.

It also came only a few hours after another report from Vichy that General Maxime Weygand, French North African commander whom the Germans are said to distrust, had been relieved of his strategic post.

This deep penetration was over ground once gained and then lost by General Sir Archibald P. Wavell's original offensive begun in December of 1940.

Rehiring of Cocking Favored

Morris, of Augusta, who issued the following prepared statement:

"The Board of Regents met today with a quorum present to receive the report of the regents' committee.

Show Good Faith.
"We transacted business which we thought was necessary to show our good faith to the investigation committee from the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, which is scheduled to meet on November 20, 1941 (today)."

This committee recently conducted a hearing in Atlanta and is scheduled to make a recommendation to the full association in December as to whether the University System of Georgia or any of its 16 units will lose their accredited rating.

Followed to his waiting automobile in front of the capitol, Beaver was pressed for some indication of what action the board took, but he remained tight lipped, merely declaring: "What business we transacted we've got to be quiet on."

Those Present.
Attending the meeting, besides Beaver, Hunter and Morris, were George C. Woodruff, of Columbus; Scott Candler, of Decatur; R. D. Harvey, of Rome, and Julian Strickland, of Valdosta.

Notably absent were John J. Cummings, of Donalsonville; L. W. (Chip) Robert, of Atlanta; J. Marvin Bell, of Gainesville; K. S. Varn, of Wareboro; Mrs. Susie T. Moore, of Tifton; James S. Peters, of Manchester; Judge Joe Ben Jackson, of Gray; Joe I. Jenkins, of Hartwell, and the Governor.

The board had before it letters from Dean Walter D. Cocking and Dr. Marvin S. Pittman in answer to queries as to whether they chairman would give no indication would accept reappointment. The that these reappointments were offered, although he had previously contended such a step would be necessary to satisfy the accrediting association.

Resignation Hinted.
It was presumed that the board adopted resolutions which would assure the association there would be no political interference with the University System in the future.

After the meeting it was hinted that Hunter had offered his resignation to the Governor in order to accept a commission in the air corps and that the Governor might now accept the offer, invalidating the action of the skeleton board.

When asked if he would attend the board meeting, the Governor countered: "Do you think it will rain today or tomorrow?"

Associated Press dispatches from Athens yesterday said Cocking had returned home for a few days, but he was noncommittal about his dismissal. He said he planned no conference with the regents, adding he would remain in Athens a few days and then return to Washington, where he has a job with the Farm Security Administration. He said his trip was occasioned by Thanksgiving holidays.

ABSENT REGENTS ASKED TO RESIGN
STATESBORO, Ga., Nov. 19.—(P)—The resignation of all members of the State Board of Regents absent from a special meeting in Atlanta today was asked by the Student Council of the Georgia Teachers' College in a called meeting tonight.

John Dunn, of Devereux, Ga., president of the council, said letters had been mailed to all the regents not attending, suggesting that "you resign if you do not have the interest of the University System at heart."

Letters also were sent to the members present, Dunn said, commending them and asking that they continue the fight to save the accredited rating of the 16 schools in the University System.

"The council also voted," Dunn said, "that we are now more than ever in favor of a special session of the legislature to take action toward removing political interference in the University System."

Violinist, Pianist Thrill Huge Atlanta Music Club Throng

By EUGENIA BRIDGES.

Members of the Atlanta Music Club gathered in the ballroom of the Atlanta Woman's Club last night to hear the second in a series of six scheduled Wednesday evening musicales, featuring Margaret Fountain, violinist, and Irene Leftwich Harris, pianist.

The audience of musicians and music lovers filled the hall to capacity, enjoying a pleasing program by the two talented artists with an inspired piano accompaniment by Mrs. Charles Chalmers to Miss Fountain's violin numbers.

Mrs. Harris opened the program with Mozart's "Fantasia in D Minor," followed by Sonata Opus 26, Air and Variations, and the Rondo, by Beethoven, playing with true musicianship to an appreciative audience. Miss Fountain chose for her first number Vieuxtemps' place in the ballroom of the Woman's Club at 8:30 o'clock.

movements of this difficult concerto were played with rare abandon and unusual skill by the youthful violinist. The accompaniment by Mrs. Chalmers left nothing to be desired and her piano during the Scherzo left one breathless.

Other highlights in the evening's entertainment included Mrs. Harris' fine playing of Debussy's "Suite Pour Le Piano" and Ravel's "Jeu d'eau." Miss Fountain's interpretations of Debussy's "Minstrels" and "Danse Espagnole," from "La Vida Breve," by de Falla. Following the last piece, the violinist gave as an encore "The Swan," by Saint-Saens.

The next presentation of the Music Club will take place next Tuesday night, November 25, when the Young Artists' Club will give its yearly program for its senior club. The performance will take place in the ballroom of the Woman's Club at 8:30 o'clock.

U. S., Mexico Settle Major Differences

Many Issues, Long-Standing, Are Included

Settlement of Oil Claims Hold Spotlight in Agreements.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The United States and Mexico today signed a series of agreements for a friendly settlement of all major questions which have been at issue between the two neighboring countries for many years.

The agreements signed today call for a settlement of the long-pending dispute over expropriation of American oil properties in Mexico; payment by Mexico of $40,000,000 in full settlement of general and agrarian claims by American citizens against Mexico; announcement of intention to negotiate a reciprocal trade agreement; agreement for providing financial assistance to Mexico to stabilize the peso; agreement to purchase newly mined Mexican silver, and a $30,000,000 loan to assist in the financing of Mexico's highway construction program.

New Milestone.

The agreement to settle the oil expropriation issue provides for each to designate an expert to place a valuation on the properties seized by the Mexican government.

The Mexican government is making a cash deposit of $9,000,000 to be held pending a final determination of the value of the American interests.

Secretary of State Hull, in announcing signing of the agreements, declared:

"They mark a new milestone of great importance in the cause of increasingly closer collaboration and solidarity between the countries of the New World."

The announcement did not say whether the arrangement for settling the oil expropriation question had been approved by the American oil companies involved. However, State Department officials said the companies did not agree to the arrangements. If no agreement is reached on the compensation within five months after the start of the negotiations, the whole oil agreement shall be void, and Mexico shall get her $9,000,000 deposit back.

Full Payment.

Under the claims agreement, Mexico will pay the United States $40,000,000 in full settlement of property claims (other than oil) by American citizens.

The monetary agreement provides for the use of a maximum of $40,000,000 from the $2,000,000,000 United States stabilization fund to stabilize the exchange value of the United States dollar and the Mexican peso. The peso currently is worth about 21 cents.

The silver agreement provides that the United States Treasury will, on a month-to-month basis, purchase silver directly from the Mexican treasury ranging up to 6,000,000 ounces per month. The price will be determined daily by the Secretary of the United States Treasury. At present, Mexico sells its silver through the New York silver market, where the United States Treasury is the principal buyer.

In an agreement participated in by the Export-Import Bank, that institution will accept highway bonds issued by the Mexican government as security for credits to enable the Mexicans to carry forward "an important highway construction program."

State Bakers Vote to Change Name of Group

Speaker Urges Economies To Keep Bread Cost Down.

The Georgia Bakers' Association becomes the Georgia Bakers' Council in a change voted at the annual meeting of the organization held yesterday at the Biltmore hotel.

All officers of the organization were re-elected, as follows: E. P. Cline, of Columbus, president; P. R. Nugent, of Savannah, vice president; C. M. McMillan, of Atlanta, executive secretary, and Horace Small, of Gainesville, treasurer.

In addressing the group, C. S. Broome, Atlanta bakery executive and past president of the Associated Industries of Georgia, called upon bakers to exercise all economies possible in keeping the cost of bread down.

Joseph Hexter, of Atlanta, president of the Southern Bakers' Association, declared the baking industry was working closely with the OPA in the interest of such economies.

Other speakers included Ray Durden, E. J. Cox, B. F. Lacy and C. Van Glover, all of Atlanta.

Inside Story Of Weygand's Move Bared In Trap on Don

Henry Taylor Wirelessly Uncensored Version From Madrid.

By HENRY J. TAYLOR.
For North American Newspaper Alliance.

MADRID, Nov. 19.—(By Wire)—Now that I am free from the drastic censorship imposed by Vichy authorities, I can report on the important developments underway in France. Strictest scrutiny of every word sent by cable or spoken by telephone or radio from Vichy has been enforced since Sunday.

The arrival of General Maxime Weygand, commander of French forces in North Africa, in Vichy on Saturday was timed to come just after the departure of German Ambassador Otto Abetz and a big party of assistants in a fleet of luxurious limousines. Previous to his departure, Abetz visited former Premier Pierre Laval, leading French "collaborationist."

The arrival of Weygand was the signal for enforcement of complete censorship. Any reference to the North African commander beyond the fact that he had arrived and sketchy innocuous statements was prohibited.

Cables Censored.

Vice Premier Jean Darlan actually took over the job of passing on all cable messages personally if they referred to Weygand in any way. Curiously enough, a dispatch I filed on Sunday after a talk with Marshal Henri Petain was the last dispatch to escape the drastic censorship.

Politicians always have offended Weygand and he is suspicious of them today, just as he has been in the past. This suspicion brought Weygand into conflict with Darlan and his henchmen who were determined to get rid of the North African commander. In their efforts to do this they salvaged their consciences with the remark that one individualist like Weygand is not warranted in obstructing an entire nation committed to collaboration with the Germans.

Free Hand Sought.

The Germans wanted a free hand immediately in North Africa which was controlled by the powerful armed forces under Weygand's command. Weygand continued to exercise this control by virtue of the decree under which Marshal Petain originally placed him in command.

To obtain a free hand in Africa German Envoy Abetz threatened to establish a separate "national" French government in Paris under Laval. He assertedly pointed out to Petain that with German backing, Laval would find it easy to have his regime accepted by the hard-pressed people of France. He further pointed out that liquidation of the Vichy regime would be automatic if Weygand was permitted to remain at the helm in North Africa.

Reds Destroy 60,000 Nazis In Trap on Don

Russians Claim Capture of Important Heights in Crimea.

By The Associated Press.

The destruction of four divisions (80,000 men) in Field Marshal Ewald von Kleist's German army in a flaming trap on the Don, barrier to the north Caucasus, and the recapture of important heights in the Crimea were announced in Soviet military dispatches last night.

These broadcast reports said the Von Kleist offensive above Rostov had been brought to a dead stop as the result of the entrapment, in which thousands of men died and much armored equipment was destroyed or captured by the Russians.

Red dive bombers, which the Russians call "stormoviks," supported the counterattack in the Crimea, presumably near Sevastopol, the besieged naval base in the west of the peninsula. The Germans, it was stated, abandoned their positions and formed a line farther back.

The Von Kleist action was believed to be part of a general new assault on Rostov, spearheaded by tank forces under the panzer expert, Colonel General Heinz Guderian.

On an arc reaching down to the sea of Azov the Germans were reported losing heavily, but pressing the attack with determination in some sectors. Local counterattacks Monday, it was said, resulted in gains of from four to 12 miles for the Russians and the recapture of a number of villages.

Attempting to spring upon staunchly defended Rostov from the flank, cross the Don and pour onto the steppes toward the Caucasian oil lands or the Caspian coast, Von Kleist's forces ran into precisely the same sort of encirclement of which they have considered themselves the true masters.

Two tank divisions, a mechanized division and an SS "elite" division began the drive on Novocherkassk, the old Don Cossack city, some 25 miles north of Rostov. From there, the Germans hoped to swing south on Rostov.

Holding a six-to-one superiority in tanks over the Russians, this iron-clad force pierced first and second Red Army defense lines, but Russian infantrymen, hidden in rearward dugouts, held their ground.

Big Soviet guns opened up with a withering fire and many of the German tanks plunged into pits and were torn apart by mines. Then Soviet planes rushed in to strafe the Germans, and the Russian lines reformed in a pocket.

THIS WAS O.K. IN GRANDMA'S DAY

LADY... you live in a modern world. Your streamlined automobile whisks you around the town... your vacuum cleaner lightens your burden... and a flick of the radio switch brings you news and entertainment from all parts of the world.

Yes, Lady... you live in a modern world filled with marvelous conveniences. And if you're really up-to-date you probably use these two modern products in your home—Twin-Pack Bread and Redi-Cut Cake—in the clever new packages designed for your convenience, plus a definite thrift quality too.

Twin-Pack is the only bread that gives you twin halves individually wrapped. While you serve one half the other remains fresh in the protective double wax wrapper. A convenience, yes—and, mighty thrifty too, with new found freedom from stale bread waste. And because variety is always desirable your grocer has two kinds: All White and Half-White-Half-Wheat.

Thousands of thrifty Southern housewives will tell you that Redi-Cut Cake is the most convenient new cake idea in years. 8 big slices of luscious 2-layer gold cake on a tray, in separate compartments, ready sliced, ready to serve. A replaceable cellophane wrapper that keeps unserved portions oven fresh. Four popular kinds: Chocolate, Caramel, Lady Baltimore and Variety 2-in-1 (4 slices Chocolate, 4 slices Lady Baltimore)—only 29c each.

Are you enjoying the convenience of these modern products? If not, visit your favorite food store and ask for Twin Pack Bread and Redi-Cut Cake today.

Business Sessions To Be Opened At Methodist Meeting

By DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

Following a day of board and committee meetings, lay and clerical delegates to the 75th annual session of the North Georgia Methodist annual conference last night at Wesley Memorial church gathered for a worship service, which was featured by a sermon by Bishop William C. Martin, of Omaha, and the observance of the sacrament of the Lord's supper, led by Bishop Arthur J. Moore.

Special music for the worship service was furnished by the Atlanta First Methodist church choir, under the direction of Harry Armstrong with Miss Irma Bentley as choir soloist.

Formal opening of the business session of the conference body will be today at 9 o'clock, at Wesley Memorial church, where all sessions of the assembly will be held through next Sunday afternoon.

The conference session for this morning will be featured by a special service in recognition of retired ministers, at which time Dr. A. M. Pierce, of Milledgeville, and the Rev. Augustus Ernest, of Monticello, will make addresses.

Nine Will Retire. Announcement has been made that at least nine ministers will retire from the active ministry this week. Those expected to ask for the superannuation relation are the Rev. J. H. House, of Hogansville; Dr. R. C. Cleckler, of Bolton; the Rev. C. C. Knowles, of Easton; the Rev. George Gary, of Turin; the Rev. Nath Thompson, of Cedartown; the Rev. J. O. Brand, of Social Circle; the Rev. J. L. Hall, of Maysville; the Rev. Walter Millican, of Hardwick, and the Rev. J. W. King, of Decatur.

It is stated that next year, when the age limit law becomes operative, there will be a dozen more ministers to superannuate. Conference records show that the nine named herewith have served the church a total of 365 years.

Appearing before the applicants and admission committees yesterday were eight young ministers who are applying for admission into the conference on trial, having been recommended by their quarterly and district conferences, and having passed their designated courses of study. In the class of eight are the Rev. Henry Walker, of Bishop; the Rev. Bascom C. Barrett, of Dalton; the Rev. John C. Moore, of Culverton; the Rev. William E. Strickland, of Brookhaven; the Rev. Jack W. Nichols, of Covington; the Rev. W. C. Bowen, of Athens, and two Emory University students, the Rev. James M. Moore and the Rev. William H. Henderson.

Memorial Conference. This annual session of the North Georgia Conference is designated as "Candler Memorial Conference," at the request of Bishop Moore, in honor of the late Bishop Warren Akin Candler, who joined this conference in 1875, and who was consecrated a bishop in 1898.

Bishop Candler always considered the North Georgia Conference his home conference. Bishop H. M. DuBose, who also considered this his home conference, and who also died this year, will be honored by the conference body.

Secretary-Treasurer W. T. Hunknutt, of the Widows and Orphans Aid Association, last night at the called meeting reported assets to be $13,064, with a membership of 70. The association voted to study the matter of disbanding for a year, and named the Rev. W. S. Robinson, Dr. Elam F. Dempsey and Dr. Thomas M. Elliott a committee to make report and recommendation one year hence.

In his discourse last night Bishop W. C. Martin, of Omaha, spoke of "Great Faith Demanded in Days of Peril." He showed from historical study that perilous days heretofore have been passed with great faith as the rescuing power. He indicated clearly the various perils that now encircle the church and civilization, and pleaded for a stronger adherence to the one thing that can overcome.

"Liberty and freedom constitute a complex question," said Bishop Martin. "And what may be easily lost is difficult to recover. To secure some desirable things far from home, we are called upon to surrender some precious possessions near by. There is more fear today than six months ago, and there never has been a day when democracy was less safe than it is today. How can one be an isolationist in a world like this?" inquired the bishop.

"God's hands are still outstretched, the wicked shall fail, and God shall have the last word."

Moore (left), Atlanta resident Methodist bishop, who will open the 75th annual session of the North Georgia Conference this morning at 9 o'clock, and Bishop William C. Martin (right), of Omaha, Neb., conference guest pastor, who will preach again tonight at Wesley Memorial church.

We must have a great experience and great faith in Him," concluded Bishop Martin.

Assets Reported. Bishop Martin will preach again tonight using the subject "The Eternal Word in a Confused World." Special music for the evening service today will be furnished by the Wesleyan College Glee Club.

Fulton Workers Not Faced With Pay Reductions

Request for Raises by Skilled Employees To Be Studied.

County employees need fear no reduction in pay as the result of a report on county salaries made by Respass & Respass, auditors, Commissioner C. R. Adams said yesterday at the meeting of the board.

Dr. Adams added that he had been swamped with telephone calls by employees and that he spoke for himself and the other board members.

The board, however, declined to consider a request from Albert Gossett, representing the Atlanta Federation of Trades, for raises for skilled county employees. Chairman Troy Chastain said the proposed raises would have to be studied in the light of budget requirements.

The board turned down, amid applause from a half hundred men and women from the Mount Vernon section, an application of the Orange Tourist Camp, on Marietta road, for a license to resume business on a nightly basis. The application was filed by James E. Harbin. County Attorney Harvey Hill reported the board had no authority to deny the license, which would result in a confiscation of property and that the applicant might find redress in the court. The tourist camp at present rents cabins on a weekly and monthly basis.

Many women testified that the camp had in the past had not been properly operated and many objected to any tourist camp whatsoever in their neighborhood. The applicant said that the character of the camp had changed entirely since the new management had purchased it.

Magic Show To Feature 'Disembodied Princess'

"The Disembodied Princess" is one of the many feats of magic to be performed at the show in the Parish House of the Church of the Incarnation, on Lee street, at 8:15 o'clock Friday night by J. H. Smith, local magician, who will cause the illusion of the body of Amy Johnson, as the princess, to disappear.

Two other magicians, E. D. Morgan and Larry Lanier, will appear on the program with Smith. The event is sponsored by the Choir Club, and proceeds will be used in the work of the church.

RIDING THE CIRCUIT AT THE METHODIST CONFERENCE

BY THOS. M. ELLIOTT

Here's a true story of the most illustrious instance of hide-bound, flea-bitten, hard-hearted, pusillanimous act of humanity I ever came across.

During the year a pastor had married three couples, receiving as wedding fees the sum of $3.85. Also during the year there had been given the pastor a mess or two of spareribs.

At the close of the year an old flea-bitten steward came up and demanded that the preacher give the church credit for $5 received in wedding fees and spareribs. There you are. The circuit served by the parson paid the munificent salary of $485 per year. And that cheapsteak steward wanted to dock the salary $5.00.

That steward could give Shylock 50 points, and beat him out of his shirt.

Deaths Precede Conference.

The deaths of two of our conference preachers just before annual conference time reminds me of the strange record that has attended the North Georgia Conference each year since 1913. Beginning that year, with only two exceptions, each succeeding year has chronicled the death of a minister or some member of a minister's family during the conference season. Herewith I give a brief record:

1913—Dr. J. B. Robins; 1914—Dr. W. P. Lovejoy; 1915—the Rev. W. L. C. Wallis; 1916—Bishop Alpheus W. Wilson and the Rev. L. P. Winter; 1917—the Rev. J. S. L. Sappington; 1918—the Rev. W. J. Caldwell; 1919—the Rev. J. W. Brooks, and the infant child of the Rev. J. W. Gardner; 1920—the young daughter of Dr. Walter Anthony; 1921—the Rev. H. J. Ellis; 1922—the Rev. C. C. Carey; 1923—the Rev. J. M. Fowler; 1924—the Rev. A. E. Sansburne and the Rev. W. M. Winn.

1925—the Rev. J. A. Sewell; 1926—Dr. J. H. Eakes; 1927—the Rev. A. M. Sprayberry; 1928—Dr. W. L. Pierce and Mrs. H. C. Christian; 1929—the Rev. Sherman R. England; 1930—the Rev. A. A. THE needs of the defense program build for you in 1942.

But—and this is spur and hope to men of ingenuity—there is no limit on how well we may build with the materials at our command.

So we invite you to look upon this car not as you would any ordinary new model, but as an unusual vehicle built to square with unusual times.

Check into the strength we have forged and hammered and wrought into the frame, the chassis, the drive.

Look into the everlasting comfort which creative discontent with "good enough" has provided in soft, all-coil springs.

Dig into the engine, and see how resourceful engineering has stepped up the efficiency of valve-in-head design with Domite pistons and FIRE-BALL compression—how it also enables you to conserve fuel while actually getting more power through Buick's exclusive Compound Carburetion.†

You may have little interest normally in things like connecting rods and main bearings and wheel rims.

But it is of utmost importance now that Buick knew how to strengthen rods for heavier duties without increasing weight—that Buick found a way to oil-finish crankshaft journals so as to double bearing life under equal loads—that every Buick wheel has a rim that not only provides a steadier and smoother ride but actually insures top tire mileage.

Little of this special ruggedness shows in the suave outward look of this trim and steady-rolling Buick—the beauty you see there is merely the garnish on the solid substance beneath.

But examine such structural details and we believe you'll quickly discover one fact:

While there may be a shortage of cars and of materials from which to make them, there's no shortage in stamina in the cars Buick builds.

And what is more important in any car these days?

No other car has ALL THIS FOR YOU IN '42

Invasion of Italy Seen as Possible

LONDON, Nov. 20.—(Thursday) (INS)—German-Italian defenses against the sudden British campaign in North Africa definitely envision a possible Allied attempt to reinvade the European continent by way of Italy or possibly the Balkans, news dispatches to London indicated today.

General Erwin Rommel, the German commander of the Axis forces in Africa, according to press advices, has strengthened his forces on land, but has not been able to secure all the planes he needs.

Rommel flew to Italy a few days ago following the announcement of at least two Libya-bound Axis convoys, the London Daily Express said, and reportedly showed worry over the continual non-arrival of vital supplies and reinforcements.

Complete Halt in Coal Production Draws Near

125,000 Men Are Reported Out of Mines

50,000 Troops Said Held in Readiness To Enter Field.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 19.—(INS) The fuse to a complete coal shutdown burned inexorably shorter tonight as increasing sympathy strikes supplanted violence in the nation's captive mine crisis.

An estimated 125,000 captive and commercial bituminous miners were on strike in the scattered soft coal fields which feed steel mills hard pressed in the production battle for national defense. Some 400,000 bituminous miners are normally employed in the country.

(Some 50,000 troops last night were reported in readiness to move into the coal fields, the Associated Press said.)

And with the wave of walkouts described by one operator as "dipping like a string of firecrackers on the Fourth of July"—came the predicted and inevitable reaction from the steel front: The banking of the first blast furnaces for lack of fuel.

Furnaces Banked. Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, principal "Big Steel" subsidiary, banked five furnaces—four in the Pittsburgh district, one in Chicago. Further curtailment was to follow.

Typical of the operator reaction was tonight's telegraphed protest to President Roosevelt from the Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators' Association, stating they and their customers are "suffering serious damage as innocent bystanders in the captive mine controversy." The message added: "At least 30 commercial mines under union shop agreement... employing approximately 9,600 men and producing 50,000 tons daily, are already shut down and indications are that the situation will be far worse by tomorrow morning."

Both United Mine Workers' Union and operator sources predicted freely and flatly that, at its present strike rate, all soft coal production would be suspended by week's end.

At least one operator charged that the "sympathy" walkouts were in fact carried out "under instructions" of union leaders.

Charges Denied. UMW leaders denied that the sympathy strikes were authorized. Authorized or "spontaneous," the commercial strikes were swiftly cited by President Roosevelt and operator associations as violations of the Appalachian agreement between commercial mine owners and the United Mine Workers headed by John L. Lewis.

In the commercial bituminous industry—that producing coal for the open market—West Virginia provided the most ominous sector. From south to north, commercial workings in that state were suspending in a wave of "sympathy" walkouts.

An operator spokesman estimated that tonight 60,000 captive and commercial miners were out in West Virginia. The state employs a total of 110,000 miners. In Pennsylvania, Kentucky and

DR. RICHARD C. FOSTER, Alabama Educator Dies

Dr. R. C. Foster, College Head, Succumbs at 46

President of University of Alabama, He Was Stricken Last Week.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Dr. Richard Clarke Foster, 46, president of the University of Alabama, died tonight as a result of an attack of Landry's or creeping paralysis.

Stricken last week, Dr. Foster's condition became serious Sunday and he was placed in an "iron lung." Some slight improvement was noted Monday morning but attending physicians said his condition became progressively worse since. The end came at 8:55 o'clock tonight, Atlanta time.

A widower, he is survived by a daughter, Miss Lida Foster, freshman student at the university, and a sister, Mrs. John McLaughlin Forney, of Tuscaloosa.

Holds Honorary Degrees. The son of Judge and Mrs. J. Manly Foster, he was born at Demopolis, Ala., July 12, 1895. He was awarded a bachelor of arts degree by the university in 1914 and won a bachelor's law degree at Harvard in 1917. He also holds honorary degrees from Alabama and the University of the South, Sewanee.

Following the World War, during which Dr. Foster served as a captain of artillery in the Army, he entered the practice of law at Tuscaloosa. He relinquished this position to become president of the university January 1, 1937.

At the time of his death, Dr. Foster was serving his second term as president of the Southeastern Conference, was vice president of the Southern University Conference and a former president of the National Association of Separated Universities.

Prominent in Politics. When stricken he was a member of the three-man subcommittee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools investigating reports of political interference in the Georgia University System.

He long was prominently identified with Alabama politics, having been a member of the state Democratic executive committee from 1924 to 1936 and a member of the similar Tuscaloosa county committee from 1932 to 1936. Dr. Foster was a director of the Merchants Bank & Trust Co., of Tuscaloosa, a trustee of the Alabama State Hospitals, a member of the Alabama and American Bar Associations, a Mason and an American Legionnaire.

He also was a member of the Phi Beta Kappa, Alpha Tau Omega, Omicron Delta Kappa and Phi Delta Phi fraternities.

Dr. Foster was intensely interested in sports and followed the fortunes of Alabama's Crimson Tide closely. Prevented from attending the Tide's game with Georgia Tech last Saturday by his illness, he listened to radio accounts of the university's victory.

Maryland, the sympathy strikes were continuing. Except for one captive mine employing 1,061 men at Westville, Illinois' soft coal industry was intact. Similarly, Ohio and Indiana had virtually escaped the sweeping coal strikes.

50,000 Out of Pits. Pennsylvania, whose suspensions started with the walkout of 26,000 captive miners seeking "union shop" contract, had at best estimates some 50,000 miners idle in both captive and commercial pits.

Important coke oven production fell off with the closings. Kentucky reported an estimated 8,000 miners on "holiday," while Maryland had at least 3,000 miners out and some 35 mines closed.

During a day marked more by its quiescence than by repetition of yesterday's slugging and shootings, roving pickets patrolled Pennsylvania fields, turning away "back-to-work" aspirants in small groups. Highlights of the day's "trouble" developments was the arrest of 11 UMW pickets for allegedly carrying pistols and smoke bombs at the Gary, W. Va., mines of the United States Steel Corporation.

Guardsmen Withdrawn. With a lessening of the tension around the strike-bound captive coal mines in the Birmingham area, half of the approximately 200 state guardsmen on duty here, were recalled tonight.

Members of the SWOC (CIO) voted Tuesday night to remain on their jobs at the Fairfield plant of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Co., after hearing a plea from union leaders asking them not to strike until the captive mine dispute could be settled.

At the same time Earl Crowder, chairman of the SWOC union dues committee, said that the UMW organization committee had decided to call off the scheduled dues inspection lines.

Former Governor Leche Reported Seriously Ill

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 19.—(INS)—Former Governor Richard W. Leche, who is under a 10-year federal sentence for mail fraud, was reported in a serious condition tonight at Baptist hospital.

While the exact nature of Leche's illness was not disclosed, hospital attaches said his temperature was "very high," nearly 104 degrees, when he entered the hospital.

Students at Oxford To Debate Labor Issue

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. OXFORD, Ga., Nov. 19.—Speakers for the fall quarter debate between Phi Gamma and Few, Emory at Oxford literary societies, were named today. The selection was made after competitive tryouts.

Harlan Johnston, of Rome, and Forrest Beam, of Sandersville, will represent Phi Gamma on the affirmative; B. J. Mayer, of LaGrange, and Maurice Christian, of Chattanooga, will speak for Few on the negative. The contest is scheduled for December 12 in the college chapel.

The subject is: "Resolved, That the Federal Government Should Regulate by Law All Labor Unions in the United States."

'Assume Altitudinal Position?' Pedantic Pap Can Tell You How

WATERBURY, Conn., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Meet Jet, the pedantic pup.

Jet, a cocker spaniel, is owned by Dr. John G. Gilmartin, Waterbury's assistant superintendent of schools and a specialist in vocabulary building.

So, if you want Jet to sit up, you have to say, "Assume an altitudinal position." If you want him to shake hands, the only command he obeys is "Fraternalize with your forepaw."

Dr. Gilmartin says Jet never barks in less than three syllables.

WHISKY HAUL.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 19.—City police seized 19 cases of holiday whisky on one of Athens' main business streets Saturday. The whisky had just been unloaded from an auto when City Officers Dick Wansley and Jack Anchors happened to stroll by and the auto roared off. One man, left stranded on the sidewalk, was taken into custody.

ATLANTA, GA., NOVEMBER 20, 1941.

'Tis An Ill Wind—

This, by the proclamation according to President Roosevelt, is Thanksgiving Day. According to the words of Governor Talmadge, the people of Georgia will celebrate Thanksgiving one week later, next Thursday. Which leaves choice of the holiday a matter of personal preference or, perhaps, of personal evaluation of the rival authorities.

In any event, a dual Thanksgiving is not a situation without benefit to some. Children of the Atlanta schools, for instance. They will receive two Thanksgiving holidays, being released from classes for today and tomorrow, likewise for Thursday and Friday of next week.

Whether you carve your turkey today or a week hence there is ample reason for the giving of thanks, in the America of 1941, despite the sad state of the world as a whole. The very fact that America, so far at least, has escaped the direct impact of war and all its modern horrors is, in itself, good reason for devout and reverential thanks that we, as Americans, find our lives set in comparatively pleasant places.

And, even when the reluctant eye turns, inevitably, to the dark clouds upon the American picture—to the strikes and clashes of factionalism, to the greed and the lack of loyalty among men who would sabotage our defense effort for minor, selfish reasons—there is still cause for thanks. Thanks that conditions are no worse, thanks that there is still faith the American way can find the path out of the quagmire of discord.

We are safe, we are fed and we are sheltered. Life, for most of us, goes along the even tenor of its way. Troubles loom for the morrow but faith in the God of our fathers and in the inevitability of ultimate triumph for truth, justice and freedom will lead us through the dark valleys of shadow toward the brighter light of a day that is, most assuredly, coming.

As we understand the accumulated grievances of the union brotherhoods, the boys have been larking on the railroad.

We May Have To Fight

The pattern of the Axis blueprint is such it calls for the immediate expansion of the United States Army.

There is the imminent threat of war in the Pacific.

Conditions on the fighting fronts in Russia pose the probability of strong Axis pressure through Libya and Turkey. Turkey already has been informed that Germany expects the right to transport troops and supplies through that country for an offensive against the Suez Canal and the British Middle East strongholds.

France is authoritatively reported to be ready to throw the weight of the French fleet back into action against the Allied nations. This is one of the most serious aspects of the situation, since it demands, at the earliest possible moment, a concerted attack against Dakar, in addition to new demands upon the Allied fleets.

Terrific pressure against the British Middle East positions may at any time require the use of American expeditionary forces if this vital position is not to be lost. If it is lost, the lifelines to Russia are in serious danger, and, if Russia is lost, the democratic world faces a terrific uphill fight.

The American Army as it exists today does not possess the manpower—the final arbiter of victory or defeat—necessary to provide an expeditionary force of the weight necessary to accomplish decisive results in these far-flung theaters of war.

Wars may be decided by mechanized units, but they must be won by masses of manpower. The German attack upon Russia proves this, effectively answering those advocates of a smaller but completely mechanized army.

It is amazing, sometimes, how order comes out of seeming chaos. Always, we expect an arm or leg to be left over when the 22 foot-balers unpile.

The Trade Commission questions the term "everlasting" as applied in ads to Quincy (Mass.) granite. Nothing is eternal, they say, unless it is a 16-pound ham in a family of three.

Can We Use Less Steel?

Steel is the most important material of all in the building of warships, of tanks and guns and all the impediments of war. The United States needs all the steel she can produce for the defense program alone. Already priorities have made it difficult to procure steel for purely civilian needs.

Some have suggested it might be possible to conserve our steel supply by reducing the normal consumption of this metal in many peacetime items. In some cases this, of course, is a feasible plan. But in others there are apparent difficulties in the way.

For instance, it is said that 3,000 tons of high-grade steel are thrown away annually in the form of used razor blades. Men who shave, about all men, might be able to reduce the total consumption of razor blades by making each blade do for more shaves than formerly. But as for saving the entire 3,000 tons—that would involve a nation of bearded wild men. Which is unthinkable.

Here, however, is a road to practical saving. Paper clips use up 1,200 tons of steel a year. Why not save every paper clip that comes to the business desk for repeated use? Surely one paper clip could well serve for a year without wearing out?

And, in the cause of feminine pulchritude, enough steel is used in the manufacture of women's corsets, each year, to build 25 destroyers. Seems a lot of steel merely to keep half the population in shape.

A stock feed, tried at an eastern college, is prepared by pouring molasses on corn and permitting it to stand. The bouquet should be somewhere between Bourbon and old Jamaica.

Modern Slaves

No more shocking revelation of the sort of world the rise of totalitarianism has brought can be found than the story, uncensored, which has recently come across the Atlantic about the forced labor gangs from French concentration camps now employed in building a trans-Sahara railway.

"Compared with us, the slaves who labored under the Pharaohs to build the pyramids lived like kings," said one of these unfortunate wretches to an American observer.

These gangs of labor are composed, largely, of men who are totally unaccustomed to physical work. They are former professional men, businessmen and teachers of France who have fallen under the displeasure of the Nazis. Today they are breaking rock for the roadbed of the projected railroad, laying the rails and doing other hard labor.

They are dying like flies under the heat of the desert, where daily temperatures range from 105 to 120 degrees Fahrenheit. They are poorly fed and their only shelter at night is a hole dug in the desert sand. Their only bed is a heap of sand and their only cover an old piece of sail canvas to stretch above the hole.

They are furnished no hats for protection from the burning sun, and but one scanty blanket for covering at night. And desert nights are cold as desert days are hot.

When the new railroad is finished, if it is, it will literally be laid upon the bones of thousands of wretched chattel slaves whose only offense has been to arouse the displeasure of their nation's despoilers.

Japan's Mr. Kuruu speeds hence to learn the reason for our peculiar silence. At this point, according to Tokyo's script, Mr. Hull should be murmuring, "Yes, yes, go on—you interest me strangely."

Anything can happen under the new process by which milk is converted to wool. Fancy, slipping on one's breakfast and eating one's vest.

Georgia Editors Say:

ROOSEVELT OR HITLER?
(From The Brunswick News.)

Politically speaking, the country is divided into two groups. There is that group which supports the administration and then there are the "Roosevelt haters."

This is still—thank God—a free country, and the individual has the right to either approve or disapprove of the President. With those who disagree with Mr. Roosevelt we have no argument as to their right to do so, but what we do argue against is their short-sightedness.

We are of the opinion that disagreeing with Mr. Roosevelt's domestic policies and disagreeing with the foreign policies are two entirely different things. If the Republican and anti-Roosevelt bloc wishes to believe that WPA, CCC, control of Wall Street, social security, etc., are all mistakes it has the right to do so. But, bad as Mr. Roosevelt may be in those eyes, we think that those who hate him with the greatest of passions will concede that Hitler would be worse. That is why it is so hard to understand their willingness, their eagerness, to undo everything which the chief executive tries to do to keep Hitler from these shores.

The isolationists—with a few notable exceptions such as Lindbergh—have denounced Hitler. And yet, despite the fact that they loathe the German dictator they have sought to sabotage every move which Mr. Roosevelt has initiated to make us safe. The members of the isolationist bloc in congress have voted against raising an army by conscription, they have voted against aid to Britain and Russia, they have voted against exchanging destroyers with Britain for bases needed to guard this country against invasion. Simultaneously, their counterparts outside of congress have toured the country making speeches against these tours.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

LABOR'S FRIENDS WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—There is little disagreement on the score that John L. Lewis sadly misjudges the temper of congress when he implies, as he did in addressing the mine workers' policy committee this week, that "the Connallys, the Smiths and the Coxes" are the only elements on Capitol Hill who regard his action as traitorous in ordering a strike of the captive coal mines.

He was referring, of course, to three of the most outspoken advocates of antistrike legislation in congress—Senator Tom Connally, of Texas; Representative Howard Smith, of Virginia, and Representative Eugene Cox, of Georgia. Each of them has voiced vigorous and repeated demands for the government to go to any extremes necessary to keep the flow of coal moving to defense laden steel mills. All three have denounced the Lewis tactics as traitorous.

But if the former CIO head thinks that only a small coterie of congressional leaders are out to crop his wings he is in for a rude awakening. Even such liberal-minded labor sympathizers as Representative Mary Norton, of New Jersey, and Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Georgia, chairman and ranking majority member, respectively, of the House Labor Committee, are now saying that Lewis has gone too far.

Labor has had no truer friend in the house than Representative Ramspeck. He feels that "the time has come for legislation to deal with John L. Lewis."

F. D. R.'S PATIENCE The awakening Lewis is certain to get sooner or later may come earlier than he expected. Congress generally has become more and more aroused over the defense strike situation, urged on by the sentiment of the people back home. It is just waiting for the green light from the administration. President Roosevelt has been moving with caution, but there is every reason to believe that he will crack down with full measures in due course. Ford has come from some of his closest advisers that he has about lost patience with some of the obstructionist demands of certain labor leaders.

In view of the double-crossing Lewis dealt him in the last presidential campaign, he would be nothing less than human if he lost patience with the ex-CIO chieftain first of all. But it is probably a desire to avoid any charge of allowing his personal prejudices to guide his actions that has caused him to deal so leniently with the captive mine strike thus far.

As most observers see it, Lewis is guilty of using an entirely specious argument in seeking to hold heads of the big steel companies responsible for the strike by claiming that they brought it on by refusing to agree to a closed shop in the mines. By twisting things around in this way, he is seeking to make it appear that the fight of the United Mine Workers, of which he is president, is against these companies and not with the government.

In normal times perhaps the government would not be concerned in the controversy, other than to see industrial peace maintained. The fact that the coal is vitally needed to keep a key defense industry going makes for a different and far more important situation.

In halting the production of coal, Mr. Lewis is in effect saying to the government: "You are not going to have this steel except on my own conditions."

FEW SACRIFICES These and other tactics of labor leaders of the Lewis stripe have caused some of labor's strongest friends in congress to become thoroughly disgusted. Labor, it is pointed out, has made little, if any, sacrifices during the present emergency. Quite the contrary, organized labor has used the emergency to make gains all along the line, both as to higher wages, unionization and the closed shop. It has not hesitated to tie up defense production of airplanes, ships and munitions. Many of the strikes have been entirely dissociated from any question of hours and wages but have been brought on by jurisdictional disputes or closed shop issues such as is involved in the present mine strike.

Another cause for congressional disgust is the treatment by CIO representatives of the National Defense Mediation Board, set up by the administration as an instrument for dealing fairly with labor disputes arising in defense industries. All of the great labor organizations were given representation on the board. Yet the very first time the board had occasion to make a decision against one of the organizations—in the captive mine case—the CIO representatives resigned as members.

The effect of the resignations was to defeat the efforts of the board to settling other labor disputes pending in defense industries. It adds to the sad performance of labor during the whole defense picture.

SILHOUETTES

This Is

Art Week.

This is National Art Week. In Atlanta the principal celebration is taking place at 60 Peachtree street, where an exhibit of the work of Atlanta artists—and, frankly, a few would-be artists—is on show and, too, on sale. No mediums for the creation of things artistic are barred from this exhibit. Pictures and sculpture alike are to be seen and it matters not what the background of the creator, the only need is the urge for creative art and the industry to carry through. It seems to me this is an ideal method for celebrating Art Week. For it celebrates art not as something of dim and cloistered museums, not as some too, esoteric for understanding by the average man or woman, not as something invading astronomical prices for pieces of oil-covered canvas.

It celebrates art as something right in the daily lives of all the people. Something living and vital, of tremendous inspiration to Mary, daughter of your friend just around the corner, or to John, the boy who used to deliver The Constitution at your front door every morning, just half a dozen years ago.

It Must

Touch Life.

Art is defined as beauty created by human hands, as distinct from natural beauty, created by the Divine Creator of all. Of course, in the final analysis, it is divinity which directs the human hands in their devoted task of painting or carving or otherwise creating beauty.

Art is unless art is a thing in the average life of a large proportion of the people, it is not alive, it is but dead art, something worthy perhaps of preservation, as a thing embalmed, but not suitable to enter the homes and the worship of the churches of the people of today.

Of course art must be alive to be worthwhile. It must color each day in every life, it must impress itself upon the people as a whole. And I think America today is contributing much to the art of all the ages chiefly because America today is bringing art more truly into the daily lives of the people than has any other nation in the world's history.

Art in Commerce.

There are some so-called artists who, it seems to me, condemn themselves as phony by the manner in which they sneer at what they dub as "commercial art." What the hell is commercial art? I want to know. It is through commerce that the beauty of improved art is chiefly brought into the homes.

The youngsters who are today experimenting with brush and palette on the corners of Georgia hills and fields, of street corners and of picturesque human "characters" tomorrow will be designing new forms and designs for the utilitarian articles of our daily life.

Do you remember the first automobile? What ungracious, ugly monstrosities they were. Compare them with the autos of today. The streamlined, chromium-trimmed beauties that skim our highways with effortless ease.

The "lines" of the modern automobile are beautiful, as are the lines of sculpture or classic architecture. Don't you know someone with a love of the artistic had a hand in developing those streamlined bodies.

Go into any retail store and look at the packaging of the merchandise upon the shelves. Don't you know that there is real art in many of those packages, that the soul of the artist has inspired new beauty into the prosaic round of daily merchandising life.

The outstanding advance of American retailing, as compared to that in foreign countries, is the art of window display. The talented window dresser whose artistic arrangement of the displays behind plate glass that line our shopping streets, is most truly an artist in the service of the public.

Everything we use, radios, refrigerators, household furniture, pots and pans, shoes and clothes and hats and tableware, everything displays the magic touch of the artist. If you doubt, compare with the same articles of your mother's day. Not only have all things we use advanced in efficiency, they have progressed, too, in artistry.

And so, I say, give all the encouragement you can to the young Atlanta artists whose work appears this week at 60 Peachtree. Not all of them can become famous portraitists or painters of landscapes. But, by their very devotion to the cause of beauty, as expressed in art, they all contribute to that ever-rising tide of consciousness of art in every-day life that is doing so much to make life of all Americans better, more perfect, more true, more worthwhile.

And remember, good character blooms in beauty, dies in ugliness.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

The opinions expressed by Mr. Pegler in this column are his own and do not necessarily represent the opinion of The Atlanta Constitution.

Praise for

is doing in this Wrong John Lewis affair?

Well, our beloved President has just nonchalantly stolen the play away from all of us poor monkeys who have been hollering and bellowing, denouncing, exposing and viewing with alarm along the union front and now he is going to call his own signal and step across the line for the touchdown as millions cheer.

People who make a profession of politics have often said that Mr. Big was the cleverest operator of our time in these United States and, chums, here is where he proves up, because if you will examine the play you will observe that he is proceeding with the support of an aroused public opinion, although he has never carried the target for a single minute in the open arena. On the contrary, our beloved President set back there while his union pals yelled "labor baiter" and "union buster" at those who prepared the way for a reform that was very unpopular at first and the most he ever gained when the going was tough, was that a very few union bosses had been faithless, to their trust. He gave the unionists plenty of chances to prove their arrogant stupidity, their lack of responsibility and their criminal character. He let them get away with larceny, mob rule and persecution until Lewis created this break in the game which was bound to come some time.

There have been other breaks, but they weren't as inviting as this one, and Mr. Roosevelt's patience and timing have been such as to command the admiration of those who have praised him least.

The G. O. P.

Lays Off

Howard Smith, of Virginia, and Hoffman, of Michigan; Byrd, Brewster and O'Daniel have raised the devil and that Smith really worked hard under handicaps and against political hazards, for he was one of the effective, persistent pioneers who recognized the faults of union practice and of the labor act and board and started scrapping when to say a word against any union was like sneering at the Christian religion. It was hereby, it was blasphemy to criticize any union or any of the inflated unioners and most members of both houses of congress were afraid to utter a peep. Some of those who kept still, however, were just shrewd and acted on a premonition that Mr. Big would do something like this and grab the political credit for their work.

The Republicans laid off, as you may have noticed, because they realized that if any reform legislation went through congress, the New Deal would go before the country and take all the bows. Or, if the legislation failed in a test, the administration would be in a position to say that the elected representatives of the people had rejected these attempts to deliver labor from an upper-case L back into the hands of the corporate exploiters.

It was a long time before the newspapers began to venture a few mutters editorially—and I think they would have been even slower to react but for the outrageous demands of the Newspaper Guild under its Communist leadership and the fantastic lies that were told about most of the controversies between publishers and the union.

Not Mad

At Anybody

The Guild probably is as much responsible as any other element on the union side for the reform which is now on the way, because the Communies with their utter cynicism and their savage persecution of dissenters in the craft made the publishers personally aware of the inequities of the whole situation. They started timidly, but now most of them are really going to town and the public obviously agrees with the editorial opinion.

And now the unioners have no other friend in the country to whom they can turn. Mr. Roosevelt was their pal and, with his encouragement, they kicked the public around so ruthlessly that anything the President may do will receive the glad indorsement of the overwhelming majority of the people. And, of course, the Republicans can't very well vote against any reforms that he may suggest either openly or through any of his dummies in congress. They will have to go along or content themselves with mere haggling over details and phraseology, because this is a great popular movement and the reform is just what they have been demanding in an abstract way.

Well, it certainly has been a wonderful row these last five or six years, but I am afraid it is almost over now, barring a few prosecutions of individuals and miscellaneous other crooks, which will be mere police stuff.

Me, I ain't sore at anybody. I ain't even sore at our beloved President for calling his own signal on the one-yard line. But I have got to get me a new specialty. Does anybody know of a good outrage that needs to be denounced fearlessly?

etc. An established rule or example which may be used as a guide in future analogous activities may be called a precedent.

As an adjective, it is pronounced pre-ced-ent, the second syllable on which the accent is placed is pronounced the same as seed in garden seed. A precedent is something that goes before. It may be one of a series of events or a procession: as If you drop the axe on your toe this morning and smash your thumb with the hammer in the afternoon, the toe incident would be "the precedent injury."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

ONE CLEAR FACT

In Birmingham this week, seeking to get a picture of the coal mine/strike in the steel company mines, I attended, with Birmingham and Associated Press newspapermen, a meeting of the SWOC, the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee.

We were admitted after a resolution had been put to the members and they had voted to allow us to enter. The men were meeting to plan for a card inspection which would, had it gone on, kept all AFL men and all nonunion men out of the Fairfield plant. (Of the 12,500 men who work there, an estimated 2,000 were AFL or nonunion men.)

There were a number of speeches. In all of them, after the inspection was agreed upon, the men were urged to not go on the inspection if they had been drinking. This was a most urgent plea.

One thing struck me with considerable force. One of the United Mine Workers was speaking, commending the move, but also urging that none go who had been drinking "Go down there," he said, "and act like gentlemen." (Then he paused.) "Well," he said, "I guess maybe we aren't gentlemen. We are workers. Go down there and act so you won't hurt the workers."

In this statement there seemed to be an illustration of one thing that has grown up in this country and which is a wrong thing and a harmful thing.

It is this—

There are too many who think of themselves as newspaper reporters or as steel workers or as miners or as plant owners or as dairymen, or as some other division of labor or business.

They want certain advantages or privileges. Sometimes it is divided fantastically. A dairymen, for instance, who favors compulsory pasteurization, cares little for the one who doesn't. And the one who fights pasteurization dislikes the one who seeks it. There are newspapers which have abused the general welfare for their own preferences. There are corporations which have done the same. There are labor unions which are monopolies and which selfishly consider only their own ends, with complete disregard for the rights and welfare of their community or state or the country. They are not alone. It is a national condition in which their part is, for the present, emphasized.

CITIZENS OF A NATION

It shocked me a little to think that because a man worked in a mine or a mill he should think of himself as a person apart—as not belonging to, and with, other people.

I had not realized that as many people think that as apparently do think so. I began thinking. It seemed to me that all of us, somehow, have fallen into the habit of thinking of ourselves as newspapermen, as printers, as miners, as owners, as dairymen, as clerks and so on, and that not many of us were thinking of ourselves as citizens.

A democracy means two things:

Equal opportunity.

Citizenship, with the implications of duty to the national welfare.

Equal opportunity does not exist, but we strive for it and it does exist in this country more nearly than in any other place in the world.

When the miner suggested that he and the steel workers were not gentlemen, but workers, he was speaking from a superficial conception of a gentleman—the stage gentleman, the Englishman with a monocle. But it went deeper. He was suggesting that because he worked in a mine and the men to whom he talked worked in a steel mill, there was a wide gulf between him and the farmers, the clerks, the writers, the doctors, the lawyers and other workers and professional men. He was implying that he and they were independent of one another; that each must set up his own demands.

The welfare of the nation seems to be lost sight of in the various struggles for privileges in various little spheres.

I can't make the picture come here as I would like. I am afraid I haven't made it quite plain.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH US?

I talked with the miner. He is a good fellow. I liked him. He told me he had a wife and seven children. He was ambitious for them. He was intensely human.

There was no time for any talk about the subject about which I am writing, so I did not attempt it. I would like, some time, to have that talk.

One of those who talked in a somewhat similar vein was George Baker, a man of about 50, who spoke out against the hot-heads who wanted to strike the plant, when their card inspection was halted by deputies, and leave the steel in the furnaces.

I liked him fine. He said he had never had much schooling but he was giving his son plenty of it. He said he was going to send him through college if he had to "beat him through." He had character and a native intelligence and he is a good American.

What has happened to us that so many are thinking they must isolate themselves from other Americans and look only one way?

What has happened to us that so many groups not only ignore other groups, but distrust them?

Only a foolish person would think you could cure all this with troops. That would mean cutting the gulfs wider and deeper.

Is it a sign that democracy and the democratic way is decadent and weak?

Is it for this reason that Hitler wrote in "Mein Kampf" that the democratic nations would destroy themselves and his army would only complete it?

Is it impossible to us to think first that we are American citizens and next that we are newspapermen, bankers, miners, steel workers, barbers, teachers, clerks, doctors, lawyers, and so on?

Dudley Glass

Never have I seen the press of America so outspoken against the labor unions—or some of them—as they have been recently, since strikes have so seriously delayed defense industries.

My personal contacts with organized labor have been limited and always pleasant. They have been confined to the several unions in the printing trades and especially the typographical union—the men who set the type and make up the forms. A reporter or any kind of editor whose work requires him to put the paper together in the composing room makes some very fine friends—if he deserves them.

I think that if all the unions were so decent and reasonable as those in the newspaper printing trade we wouldn't be having all these industrial troubles. The printers can drive hard bargains as to wages and hours and working conditions, but when they sign a contract with the employers they stick to it.

For many a year most newspapers have been strong supporters of organized labor. Perhaps because it was good business and helped circulation.

But even those papers which have given the unions all the breaks for a generation or so are becoming outspoken in their criticism of Lewis and his CIO. Editors, in company with the most of the population, are losing patience.

Who Runs the Nation?

Most irritating attitude and action of some unions is not their demands for more pay—though this may be most annoying to employers, one of which I am not—but their sometimes unreasonable insistence on interfering with what seems to an outsider to be other people's business.

Which brings up a recent occurrence in Missouri, where an editors' and publishers' convention was being held. Some of the soldiers in a near-by training camp desired to put on a show, an amateur affair which would tell the visitors of the joys and tribulations of the men in uniform.

Everything was all set—when a union leader got the ear of the War Department and had the show stopped—because it would compete with professional actors. William Allen White's famous Emporia (Kans.) Gazette made this comment:

"It is getting time to find out who is running this country—whether for instance the accredited public servants or an extraneous organization with Fascist leaders outside of government, the labor unions' big bosses of this land, are running this land of the free—if it is free, and this home of the brave if we've got any guts left!"

"The country has been particularly generous in its treatment of labor in the last 10 years. The country has given to labor every privilege and immunity which it has asked. The country is extending the middle class to encompass labor.

Labor Unions And the Public; Not So Friendly

"Have labor leaders got no sense? Don't they realize that the people of this country, the common run of folks, give and the common people take away and blessed be the name of the plain American people? The middle class are trying to abolish the proletariat, to make it easy for labor to join up, to be one of them. But when labor stands aloof and tries to run the country—well—

"There's got to be a showdown and we have to find out who really is boss around here."

Churches Vs. Saloons

Here's one of those little "filler" items used by a number of weekly newspapers—and it seems to me to be a most magnificent whopper.

"Some one has figured it out that the nation over, there are 11 saloons for every five churches. The saloons are open seven days a week while the churches are open only a few hours on Sunday."

I don't know who that "some-one" is nor how he—or she—obtained the statistics. But let's think it over.

Much of the United States is still "dry." At least, officially. Which means no saloons.

All of you who travel, in any state, know 90 per cent of the towns have no saloons. But did any of you ever see a town or a village without a church—or several churches?

I have no facts or figures, but I'm willing to bet there are 15 times as many churches in this country as there are saloons—under any name. And that, of course, is as it should be.

I may be sticking my neck out—but I'll repeat that some of the wildest and most absurd distortions of facts I have ever run across have been in speeches and written articles by reformers of one kind or another. Still, there is a group which holds that the end justifies the means—and that a good lie makes a fine argument.

Placard I observed in the show window of an antique shop in Birmingham:

"Come in and look around—but don't tell us about the beautiful things your Aunt Maria used to own."

SIGNS DESTROYED.

GRIFFIN, Ga., Nov. 19.—Chief of Police Stanley Harper today issued a warning to persons who have been destroying school zone warning signs in the city. Latest sign to be destroyed was near the Griffin High school, which is attended by several hundred students daily.

MODERN ATLANTA—Here is another of the six murals by Wilbur G. Kurtz, Atlanta painter of historical subjects,

Murals by Wilbur Kurtz Depict Six Periods in Atlanta History

Six murals by the Atlanta artist, Wilbur G. Kurtz—showing the progress of this city from 1814 to the present day—have been hung in the Community Center of Capitol Homes, recently completed housing project on Memorial drive.

The canvases, interesting for their use of color, their decorative value and their historical background, present a panorama of Atlanta beginning with the first mural entitled "Standing Peach Tree," and ending with a view of modern Atlanta's skyline, a streamliner and the city's coat-of-arms.

"Standing Peach Tree," which goes back to 1814, depicts a fort built of logs, the boatyard and stockade which once stood at the mouth of Peachtree creek, on the Chattahoochee river. An Indian village is shown also on this canvas, as well as figures of Lieutenant Gilmer, who was later Governor of Georgia, and for whom Gilmer street is named, and J. M. C. Montgomery, a mechanic in charge of shipping supplies by barge to Columbus, Ga.

The second mural suggests Atlanta's beginning in the west end and is entitled "Whitehall Tavern." This was a small settlement in 1833, now approximately the busy intersection of Lee and Gordon streets. Whitehall street was named for this early community.

Another mural is "The Last

Cerokee," suggesting the departure of that tribe from Atlanta in 1828. "Atlanta, Embattled," the fourth mural, shows three famous defenders of the city during the War Between the States, Generals Hardee, Hood and Cheatham. The next mural depicts reconstruction days and is entitled "Atlanta Resurgent." Kurtz is well known as a painter of historical subjects. During filming of the movie version of "Gone With the Wind," he served as technical adviser for the production.

Agnes Scott Unit Will Present Play

Flackfrairs, Agnes Scott dramatic group, will present an English mystery play, "Ladies in Waiting," at 8:30 o'clock tonight in Presser Hall as its first production of the season.

Featuring an all-girl cast, the play involves an attempted murder with a solution by a girl detective. Setting is near the English moors.

The cast includes: Martha Sue Dillard, Zena Harris and Jackie Stearns, of Atlanta; Elise Smith, of Marshville, N. C.; Neva Jackson, of Columbia, S. C.; Ann Flowert, of Thomasville, Ga.; Rebecca Stamper, of Andrews, S. C.; Louise Pruitt, of Hickory, S. C., and Anne Ward, of Selma, Ala. Frances K. Gooch, director, and Roberts Winter, technical director, are faculty members.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

THE METHODISTS.

The annual session of the North Georgia Methodist conference is now in full swing here in Atlanta. Bishop Arthur J. Moore presiding. Atlanta is always glad to have the Methodists meet here. They are a blessing to the entire community. Fortunately, we have lots of Methodists here all the time, and when any special meeting brings in chosen messengers from other communities, we are doubly blessed.

Methodism is the name given to the religious movement in England, led by John Wesley. Wesley himself was impatient of sectarian names, and called the people whom he enrolled in classes for religious culture the United Societies, all Christians from Anglicans to Quakers being alike welcome. His definition of a Methodist (abridged) was as follows: "A Methodist is one who has the love of God shed abroad in his heart by the Holy Ghost given unto him; one who loves the Lord his God with all his heart and soul and mind and strength; He rejoices evermore, prays without ceasing and in everything gives thanks. His heart is full of love to all mankind, and is purified from envy, malice, wrath and every unkind affection. His one desire, and the one design of his life, is not to do his own will, but the will of Him that sent him. He keeps all God's commandments, from the least to the greatest. He follows not the customs of the world; for vice does not lose its nature through its becoming fashionable. He fares not sumptuously every day. He cannot lay up

Getting Up Nights Makes Many Feel Old Too Soon

If you're feeling old, Get Up Nights or suffer from Burning Passages, Backache, Swollen Ankles, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Diarrhea, Crises Under Eyes and feel worn-out, the cause may be non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles.

Worry, Cold, working too hard, or over-eating or drinking may create an excess of Acids and overload your Kidneys so that they need help to flush out poisonous wastes that might otherwise undermine your health.

Help Kidneys Remove Acids

Nature provides the Kidneys to clean and purify your blood and to remove excess acids. The Kidneys contain about nine million tiny tubes or filters through which the heart pumps blood about 300 times an hour, night and day, so it's easy to see that they may get tired and slow down when overloaded.

Fourteen years ago a practicing physician's prescription called Cystex was made available to the public through drug stores, making it easy and inexpensive to help thousands suffering from non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles in these three simple ways: 1. Help the Kidneys remove excess acids which may become poisoning and irritating. 2. To facilitate burning and smearing of the urinary passages, and bladder irritation. 3. Help the Kidneys flush out wastes which may become poisonous if allowed to accumulate, thus aiding nature in eliminating an increase of energy, which may easily make you feel years younger.

Money Back Guarantee

Usually, in non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder disorders the very first dose of Cystex goes right to work helping the Kidneys flush out excess acids, poisons and wastes. And this cleansing, purifying Kidney action, in just a day or so, may easily make you feel younger, stronger and better than in years. A printed guarantee with each package of Cystex insures an immediate refund of all your money unless you are completely satisfied. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose, under this positive money back guarantee. Don't take chances on any Kidney medicine that isn't guaranteed. Air Power as Aid to Defense Described by Aviation Official

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 19.—(AP)—"Air power is national defense—to neglect national defense is to invite disaster."

Thus did Leigh C. Parker, vice president of Delta Air Lines, sum up here today the part aviation is playing and will play in the defense effort.

He reviewed progress made by commercial aviation within the past few years, and told how its strength can be and is being diverted to defense channels.

For example, he said, the air transport industry employs, and keeps highly trained, more than 1,300 of the world's finest aerial navigators and "big-ship" pilots.

"What a mass of heavy bombers these men could man," he said. Parker said that air power cannot be successfully applied without adequate reserves, however, and added that the reserves must be not only of materials, but of men and facilities as well. And it is there, he said, that civilian air transport can aid most.

He spoke before the Athens Rotary Club.

W. T. Anderson

Hurt in Accident

MACON, Ga., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Examination of W. T. Anderson, editor of the Macon Telegraph, today disclosed that he suffered a broken leg in an automobile accident last night.

Anderson was hurt when his car was wrecked near here. At first it was indicated his injuries were minor abrasions and contusions. An X-ray examination this morning revealed the leg fracture, Dr. C. C. Harold said.

GAS Hot Water Service

HOME DEFENSE

Plenty of hot water to keep dishes sparkling and do cleaning jobs thoroughly and quickly joins the front ranks in home defense...in protecting the health and happiness of your family.

It means so much in convenience, too. Baths and showers without delay. Hot water for every need, at a turn of the faucet.

You can enjoy instant hot water service at surprisingly low cost—automatically with Gas. The average Atlanta home now using this modern gas service, heats 10 gallons of hot water for one cent. It will probably cost less in your own home than you think. Come in today, or phone us, WA. 8051. Get information now about the high efficiency and reasonable cost of automatic gas hot water service.

ATLANTA GAS LIGHT CO.

Gallon for gallon, it actually costs less to heat water automatically with Gas than by inconvenient, far less satisfactory methods.

Several New Pictures Begin Runs in Theaters Here Today

Comedy, Crime and Drama Are Included in Varied Slate of Attractions; Stage Show Will Debut at Capitol Tomorrow.

By DUDLEY GLASS.
Several new pictures and a couple of holdovers start the new week today.
Shirley Temple, a big girl now, aged 12, comes to Loew's Grand in "Kathleen." Margaret Sullivan and Charles Boyer are at the Fox in "Appointment for Love." The Paramount offers a crime story called "Hot Spot." The Capitol starts its new show tomorrow—"Lady Scarface," with a new stage show called "Memories of Paris."

"Swamp Water," at the Roxy, has been doing so well it goes into its second week. "You Belong to Me" is being held at the Rialto. "The Chocolate Soldier," with Nelson Eddy and Rise Stevens, moves to the Rhodes.

Shirley Returns.

Sweet little Shirley Temple—whom this reviewer disliked because she was just too sweet—is back on the screen after a rest of 18 months. She's a big girl now.

Her picture starts today at Loew's Grand. It is called "Kathleen." Herbert Marshall is the leading man, and how he likes playing leads to a child I couldn't say. But many a good vaudeville actor has followed the monkeys and ponies.

A Harold Heffernan story from Hollywood says Shirley walks away with the show. She had made several flops—after earning more money for her studio than any talented star from Broadway.

"M-G-M. took her on for one picture—and the previous audiences seem to have loved it. Heffernan says the kid is actually good. Working with such folk as Herbert Marshall, Gail Patrick and Laraine Day, she succeeds in keeping the paying public looking at her.

That's all right by me. I don't like the child prodigies and never will. But if Shirley has learned to act I hope she keeps on acting and acting better and that my grandchildren will enjoy her enormously in a gray wig.

Boyer and Sullivan.

Featured in "Appointment for Love," starting today at the Fox, are Charles Boyer and Margaret Sullivan, two most capable screen players.

Boyer plays a Broadway playwright and Miss Sullivan is a physician who insists on keeping on in her profession in spite of her marriage to the temperamental writer.

The settings are modern—the New York of today. In the background move many characters of that world—actors, writers, taxi drivers. Prominent in the cast are Eugene Pallette, the 300-pound character man, and Rita Johnson, who has risen rapidly in the last year or two.

The picture is distinctly a comedy of the "refined" type. Boyer returns to his first love—straight farce—which made him famous in Paris. In this opus he becomes a volunteer fireman, gets a black eye, and gets into one jam after another.

Rialto Film Holds.
"You Belong to Me," the Wesley Ruggles production for Columbia, with Barbara Stanwyck and Henry Fonda as the co-stars, is running so strong at the Rialto theater Manager Murray has decided to hold it over for a second week.

This picture is described as the year's wackiest, wittiest comedy romance. It is all about a woman with a career, who marries a wealthy playboy without one. And, of course, her professional contacts arouse his wild jealousy. The picture is magnificently staged, whether the setting be mansion, night club or summer resort. And the costumes Barbara Stanwyck wears are sufficient to set the women folk talking for weeks to come.

GROWN-UP NOW—Here is Shirley Temple, aged 12, who returns to the screen in "Kathleen," with Herbert Marshall. The picture starts today at Loew's Grand. A special show for youngsters will be given Saturday morning starting at 9 o'clock.

In addition to the two stars, the picture has a cast that includes Edgar Buchanan, Roger Clark, Ruth Donnelly, Melville Cooper, Ralph Peters and Maude Eburne. The Rialto has novel short subjects for this week of "You Belong to Me."

"Hot Spot" Opens.
"Hot Spot," a crime story with comedy, starts its run at the Paramount theater today with Betty Grable, Carole Landis and Victor Mature in the leading roles.

The story is about a girl hash slinger in a cheap cafe who consents to be made a glamour queen in Hollywood—with Mature as the promoter of her charms.

Alan Mowbray and William Gargan are featured in the cast. Mature is back on the screen for the first time since his Broadway hit in "Lady in the Dark." Miss Landis and Miss Grable were teamed a short time ago in "Moon Over Miami."

The screen play was adapted from the crime novel, "Wake Up Screaming," by Steve Fisher.

"Lady Scarface."
"Lady Scarface," a gripping melodrama with all the thrilling ingredients found in plots of this kind, is the feature attraction for the Capitol theater screen for three days starting Friday, together with the new stage show, "Memories of Paris."

The unusual plot foundation of "Lady Scarface" is built upon the character of a woman who is leader of a gangster mob, and it

Man Hurls Pitcher At Judge's Bench

William Jackson, on trial on a charge of burglary before Judge Walter C. Hendrix, in Fulton superior court, yesterday startled the court by throwing a pitcher of water in the direction of the bench. The pitcher landed at the feet of Court Reporter John Walton. Jackson has made three attempts to escape from the courtroom in recent months and last week interrupted a hearing in his case by screaming "Heil Hitler."

OPM Orders February Auto Production Cut

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The OPM today ordered passenger automobile production in February reduced 56.1 per cent, compared with February, 1941, and added that the cut might be far greater because of increasing shortages of steel and other critical materials. The production maximums will allow the manufacture of 174,129 cars in February, compared with 396,521 in the same month this year.

is this premise that provides this new production with a new and novel plot construction.

Heading a fine cast are Dennis O'Keefe, as a young law enforcement officer; Judith Anderson, famed for her great performance as the villainous housekeeper in "Rebecca"; Frances Neal, Eric Blore and many others.

The cast of "Memories of Paris," the stage show portion of the Capitol's new program starting Friday, includes many well-known vaudeville personalities, such as Henri Thierri, the "Painter of Songs," formerly with Roxy and His Gang; the LaVerne, a daring Apache act; Carl Ritchie, in novelty offering; the 12 Mademoiselles from Armentiers, and Arman Delmar, fantastic gymnast.

215,500 in City's 275 Churches

One-half the people in Greater Atlanta are not connected in any way with any church, Dr. S. F. Dowis, city missionary in Atlanta, told the Home Mission Board, Southern Baptist Convention, at its one-day session here yesterday.

Estimating the population of Greater Atlanta as 430,000, Dr. Dowis said there are 215,500 people here connected with the 275 churches of all faiths and races. The 80 white Baptist churches, he said, have a membership of 62,000.

"Let this not be any discredit to Atlanta when compared with other cities," Dr. Dowis declared, "for Atlanta is a church-going city, but it is certainly a great challenge to all Atlanta churches and Christian forces."

Dr. Fuller Re-elected.

Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, Atlanta, was re-elected president of the Home Mission Board for a 13th term. Also elected for a 13th term was Dr. Lawrence. The group also returned to office Dr. M. N. McCall, superintendent of mission work in Cuba, for a 36th term.

Others elected included G. Frank Garrison, of Atlanta, recording secretary; Dr. K. O. White, of Atlanta, vice president; Dr. Leavell, Atlanta, superintendent of evangelism; Dr. J. W. Beagle, field secretary of homeland; Dr. Alfred Carpenter, army worker; the Rev. Gartenhaus; Dr. Noble Y. Beall, field secretary for work among Negroes; the Rev. Joe W. Burton, publicity secretary, and Mrs. Una Roberts Lawrence, of Kansas City, missionary study editor.

18 States Represented.

Representatives from 18 states attended the meetings. Atlantans participating included Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, president; M. A. Cooper, B. M. Callaway, B. L. Bugg, G. F. Garrison, Frank B. Graham, J. Lon Duckworth, A. W. Jackson, J. Elmer Slider, D. H. Hall Jr., G. J. Davis, K. O. White, Horace S. Collinsworth, W. Lee Cuts, Z. E.

DR. ELLIS A. FULLER
Elected for thirteenth time.

Barron, W. A. Duncan and Selwyn Smith.

A budget of $630,000 was presented by Dr. J. B. Lawrence, of Atlanta, executive secretary-treasurer. Principal item was $246,742 for mission work throughout the south and in Cuba and Panama. Allocated for debts was $277,000, and $100,000 allotted for operating expenses, field work, publicity, old-age pensions and miscellaneous.

Committee reports were submitted by Dr. Fuller, administrative; J. W. Beagle, of Atlanta, on mission work in the homeland; Mr. Davis, Cuba and Panama; Roland Q. Leavell, of Atlanta, evangelism; the Rev. Joe W. Burton, of Atlanta, publicity and education; Mr. Bugg, trust funds; Mr. Callaway, church building loan; Rev. Jacob Gartenhaus, of Atlanta, field secretary for Jewish work, and

Dr. Alfred Carpenter, army camp work.

The world is witnessing great changes in the Jewish attitude toward Christ, Rev. Gartenhaus said.

In the past, he said, those who voiced disapproval of the traditional view of Christ were "soon silenced and the masses continued to remain in darkness and in ignorance of His True Person."

But in recent years, said Rev. Gartenhaus, "we have begun to hear a chorus of voices of Jewish leaders vying with one another in their appraisal of Jesus."

In his report on evangelism, Mr. Leavell said citywide campaigns had been conducted in 27 southern cities, and that baptisms in the last five years totaled 191,993 in 1936, 204,567 in 1937, 256,814 in 1938, 269,155 in 1939 and 245,500 in 1940.

There are 142 active Baptist chaplains and 33 inactive reserves with the army, and 17 active and two inactive with the navy. There is urgent need for additional chaplains for the navy, he said.

Emory Student Group Will Hear John T. Whitaker

John T. Whitaker, the foreign correspondent, will speak on "Who's Winning the War?" at 8:30 o'clock tonight in the Glenn Memorial auditorium at Emory University under auspices of the Student Lecture Association. Whitaker spent 10 years in Europe, first with the New York Herald-Tribune, and since 1938 for the Chicago Daily News, until last May when he was expelled from Italy.

Yes, Build-Up Is What Counts In Romance

Appointment for Love Is Big Moment, Dixie George Says.

By DIXIE GEORGE.
No girl or boy will admit it out loud, but there comes a time in their life when an Appointment for Love becomes the Big Moment.
But there is more to it than that. Poets and song writers to the contrary, there is no open season for romance. The build-up is what counts. Plus inspiration and association. So what happens? Boy meets girl for date.
Since there is always some John or some Bill making life perplexing as well as exciting for some girl, and since there is a Mary or a Jane, inspiring some boy to think he is the Romeo of her dreams, today's lesson deals with appointments for love.
So gather around, girls and boys, and take a few tips from Aunt Dixie.
The main thing is that the date with the one and only must be perfect to the nth degree.
If you are a girl, making plans for the date is very important. The perfect man may be tall, dark and handsome. Or he may be short and stocky, or be a blonde venus with disarming blue eyes.
Now that you have him all picked out the next thing to worry your pretty head is what to wear. Will he like it and will it make you look more charming than ever? Of course your dress must be just like a car. The latest model with the best lines, but able to take the curves with ease. And of course you have curves, or are you still dieting? And your hat must be a I-Bought-It-For-You number.
And where must you go? The right setting has a great deal to do with romance, or rather the build-up for romance. When it's an appointment for love anything is bound to happen.
So, girls, think it over.

Decatur's Officers Unopposed Again

Decatur citizens apparently have no kick coming about their city government.
Yesterday was the last day for qualifying in the city's commission race September 3, and nobody sought election except the incumbents, Andrew B. Robertson, president chairman, and John Wesley Weeks.
It's the fourth consecutive year in which the incumbents have had no opposition.
Registration of voters closes Saturday, City Manager A. F. Newman announced. The city hall will remain open until 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon to take the registration.

MUCH FOOD CANNED.
HAMILTON, Ga., Nov. 19.—(P) The Pine Mountain cannery has processed 80,000 cans of food products this season and may reach 100,000 before work is finished on sweet potatoes and turnip greens. Peaches were the first Georgia product to pass through the cannery to the tune of 50,336 cans. Tomatoes and beans also were put up.

Initiative Will Win War, Says Miss Thompson

The "Volksstaat" combines with imperialism, as few Nazis knew before Hitler purged them all at the behest of his generals.
That country will win the war who first most clearly discerns the track of history and gets on that track. That people can save the world—perhaps—that, going back to the Aristotelian conception of politics, has "the art to discern what is good for mankind."
I believe it is almost hopeless to await that discernment from government or politicians. For even the best of them are the prisoners of their own policies and their own commitments.
Initiative must spring from the peoples themselves.
And the American people hold the clue to this war, if they can awaken their imaginations and wills. For this people is the new world, and here are all the elements of Europe, cut loose, however, from petty racialisms and nationalisms, cut loose from everything in Europe, except the grand line of Europe as a whole.
A first necessity in the awakening of a will, a will for, as well as a will against, is, therefore, to avoid at all costs falling backward into a 100 per cent Americanism, provincial in outlook. Rather, we must seek to find the fundamental trends, common to the whole of western civilization, and construct, on these trends, a program of reorganization and reconstruction for a new co-operation between Europe, Britain and ourselves. Only a program that bids fair to accomplish this will mean peace. And, if such a program is lifted up, it will attract to itself the peoples of the whole world.

Opportunity School Holds Open House

Mothers Get Hair-Do's; Fathers Sample Cooking.

More than 1,000 parents, relatives and friends of students, together with school officials and business and social work leaders, were guests at an "open house" held from 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon until 8 o'clock at night at the Atlanta Opportunity School.
Mothers were given beauty treatments and permanent waves and other hairdos, fathers sampled their daughters' cooking, and the throng viewed an elaborate display of the work of the school classes.
The entire working of the school was demonstrated.
The fanciest cake on display, baked and decorated by the pupils at the school, was presented to Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta public schools, when he visited the "open house."

'Solitary' Preferred To Lash By Joint Penitentiary Group

Solitary confinement rather than the lash was recommended yesterday as a method of punishment for Georgia prisoners as a joint house and senate penitentiary committee completed and submitted to the Governor a general report on prison conditions in the state.

Four members of the committee voted for solitary confinement to replace the "sweat box" while three held out for the lash, which is generally believed to be favored by the Governor. Final authority, however, will rest with the Governor and State Prison and Parole Commission, since the committee only made a recommendation which may or may not be adopted.

Declaring that with a few exceptions they found the state highway and county work camps to be in "good and fair" condition, members of the committee included in their report the following additional recommendations:

More Comfort Wearing FALSE TEETH

Here is a pleasant way to overcome loose plates, discomfort, FASTEETH, an improved powder, sprinkled on upper and lower plates holds them firmly so that they feel more comfortable. No gummy, sticky, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Does not sour. Checks "tooth odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH today at any drug store. —(adv.)

1. Separate sleeping quarters, hospitals, mess halls and other buildings for whites and blacks.

2. An induction camp for prisoners with the cost of transportation to and from the various camps to be borne by the state, preferably in buses to be owned by the State Prison and Parole Commission.

3. Personal visits from the warden each morning and evening to prisoners in solitary confinement, with a daily report to be kept on the condition of each prisoner.

4. A well-rounded daily diet to consist of plenty of fresh meat and vegetables.

In recommending solitary confinement as punishment for unruly prisoners, the four committee members specified that it be accompanied by a diet of bread and water and that such prisoners be denied other privileges ordinarily granted to inmates.

In this connection, the committee added the building should contain two barred windows not less than 15 by 15 inches, that a doctor should examine the prisoners before confinement and daily thereafter, and that not more than two prisoners should be confined at one time.

This same committee made a similar recommendation once some time ago and was split the same way. At that time, it was ordered to complete a state-wide investigation and make a general report.

Voting for solitary confinement were Senator E. L. Almond, Senator R. E. Cannon and Representatives C. Z. Harden and T. J. Wells. Three Favor Lash.

Upholding adoption of the lash to be administered in the presence of a physician were Representatives W. R. Bleasdale and H. B. Smith and Senator O. W. Hill.

In prescribing the prisoners' diet, the committee said it should include corn bread for breakfast, dinner and supper, wheat bread not less than once a day, not less than one pound of meat or fish a day, one pound of fresh pork, beef, mutton or kid twice each week, or one and one-half pounds of fresh fish in lieu of the fresh meats, syrup of good quality three times a day, fresh or canned vegetables twice a day and not less than one cup of coffee or tea for breakfast in winter and summer.

As to the warden's visits to confined prisoners, the committee had this to say:

"The warden personally shall visit and converse with each prisoner held in solitary confinement at least every morning and evening. The purpose of such conversation will be, in so far as possible, to determine the physical and mental condition of the prisoner."

In its 20-page report the joint committee set down the rules and regulations to be followed by wardens, guards, inspectors and other prison officials but had little to say about its

New Mistrial In Sutherland Case Declared

Jury Unanimous in Opinion It Can't Reach Verdict.

After listening to testimony for five days and deliberating since 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the second federal jury to try Police Officer W. F. Sutherland on a charge of obtaining a confession from a 16-year-old Negro boy by burning him, reported at 3:25 o'clock yesterday afternoon that it could not reach a verdict.

Judge E. Marvin Underwood declared a mistrial when T. C. Ellis, of Stone Mountain, foreman, said the jury was unanimous in the opinion that it never could reach an agreement.

Yesterday's mistrial is the second in the case since Sutherland was indicted by the government for allegedly depriving Quintar South, 16-year-old Negro boy, of his constitutional rights by forcing him to sign a confession to a burglary. Sutherland allegedly beat and slapped the boy and burned him on the neck and arms with a hot photographic tacking iron.

Sutherland alternately paced the hall or sat with his attorneys and smoked during the 15 hours the jury was in the jury room. He declined to comment on the action of the jury.

tain two barred windows not less than 15 by 15 inches, that a doctor should examine the prisoners before confinement and daily thereafter, and that not more than two prisoners should be confined at one time.

This same committee made a similar recommendation once some time ago and was split the same way. At that time, it was ordered to complete a state-wide investigation and make a general report.

Voting for solitary confinement were Senator E. L. Almond, Senator R. E. Cannon and Representatives C. Z. Harden and T. J. Wells. Three Favor Lash.

"I DIDN'T DO IT"—Edwin Bolger Michael, left, 32-year-old Ringling Brothers circus employee, brought here in transit to Charlotte, N. C., to face charges of poisoning in connection with the death of 11 elephants, still maintained his innocence yesterday. He is shown with J. A. Addy, center, of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, and Edward A. Mullin, of the Burns detective agency.

SAY THEY SAW POISONING—Claude Bolick, left, and Odell Griffie, of Gastonia, N. C., told officers they saw Edwin Bolger Michael give an elephant five "white pills about as big as your finger" when the circus played in Charlotte, N. C. They said they thought at the time that the elephant was sick and he was giving it a dose of medicine. Michael is charged with "malicious injury."

findings throughout the state other than the following statement:

"As the committee comes to the close of its 1941 investigations we feel with pardonable pride that our efforts and investigations have contributed largely to the general satisfactory system now in existence in our state."

"We are confident that the prison system of the state of Georgia, under the splendid fair, humane administration of his excellency, Eugene Talmadge, together with the full co-operation of the prison and parole board, now places Georgia high in rank with any prison system in the United States."

"We recommend and believe that it is of vital importance and necessary for a similar series of investigations to be made in the year 1942, as they have been in 1941."

The committee filed separate reports on each of the 101 camps in the state, with the recommendation that a few either be cleaned up or abolished.

Royal K. Mann, of the Prison and Parole Commission, said the commission could accept only such parts of the report as it desired.

Soldiers To Be Guests of Exchange Club, Legion

Some 200 soldiers from the Lawson General Hospital and 25 from the 503d Parachute Battalion, Fort Benning, will be guests of the Co-operative Exchange Club of Atlanta and Harold Byrd post of the American Legion at 8 o'clock Saturday night in the Decatur city auditorium.

The program includes a square dance with a hillbilly band, a floor show and ballroom dancing from 8 o'clock until 12. Girls are needed to dance with soldiers and are urged to call Mrs. Vernon Frank, Dearborn 3309, or Mrs. Harry Sappington, Dearborn 8572.

It's Tough Job For 'Admiral' Behind a Desk

But Captain Bozardt, of 4th Corps Area, Says Fleet's in Shape.

By The Associated Press.

The Army's "admiral" has a tough job in the Fourth Corps Area, but today he was able to report his fleet ship-shape and ready for action.

The "admiral" is Captain Marion L. Bozardt, transportation officer attached to the corps area quartermaster office.

Most of the time he sits behind a glass-topped desk in the Hurt building, nearly 300 miles from the nearest seaport, but nevertheless he has charge of all boats operated by the quartermaster corps in eight states, and there are more of them than you might think.

The vessels range in size from small rowboats to huge troop transports, the largest under his jurisdiction being the 98-foot steam launch "Major Albert C. Jenkins," whose home port is Fort Barrancas, Fla.

The "Major Jenkins" is used for ferrying freight and passengers.

The glamour boats of the quartermaster fleet are the crash boats in operation at all Army airports near the sea or other large bodies of water.

These boats are built on the lines of an ordinary speed boat, but are equipped with searchlights, fire-fighting equipment, first-aid kits, and other impedimenta necessary when a plane crashes into the sea.

Also there are several launches that are used for recreational purposes and rescue work. Other boats, mostly large barges, are used for target practice by the Army's bombers. All the boats are manned by soldiers or civilian workers employed by the quartermaster corps.

Williams Named Head Of Athens Gideon Camp

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 19.—W. Paul Williams was named president and other officers were elected at a banquet held here at which time an Athens camp of Gideons was formed.

Other officers elected were Fred Bishop, vice president; H. A. Haygood, secretary and treasurer, and L. L. LaBoon, chaplain. Speakers at the banquet were W. L. Hardin Jr., M. L. Thrower and W. L. Cleveland.

Guest speakers, including R. L. LeTourneau, Toccoa industrialist, occupied pulpits at some of the local churches Sunday, and in the afternoon Bibles were placed in two Athens hotels by the Gideons.

Michael Still Denies Guilt in Elephant Case

Awaits Transfer to Charlotte, N. C., by Officers.

Edwin Bolger Michael, Ringling Brothers circus employee, remained in Atlanta's city jail yesterday, awaiting transfer to Charlotte, N. C., on charges of "malicious injury," growing out of the poison deaths of 11 elephants. He still declared "I didn't do it, so I don't see how they can do anything but turn me loose."

Captain S. W. Roper, of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, said North Carolina officers will come here for Michael, 32, who was arrested in St. Petersburg, Florida.

Claude Bolick and Odell Griffie, of Gastonia, N. C., who came here from St. Petersburg, where they identified Michael, said yesterday they saw Michael give five large white capsules to an elephant on Sunday, November 2, when they watched him from under a tent flap and thought he was a doctor giving the animal medicine.

Michael asserts he is a victim of mistaken identity, but he told officers he remembered seeing Bolick and Griffie somewhere before.

Roper said Michael would be detained here until local police concluded investigation of the case as far as it involved Georgia. Most of the elephants died here.

One Nazi Destroyed Is Worth 6 Italians Seized, British Think

CAIRO, Nov. 19.—(INS)—The British troops are seeking out and engaging the Germans in preference to the Italians on the principle that one Nazi destroyed is worth half a dozen Italian troops captured.

British military authorities say it is safe to say that if the Allies succeed in inflicting a shattering blow against the Germans, the Italians, who look to the Nazis for support, are not likely to impede the British.

Annual Parley Of Sheffield Clinic Planned

Dr. Semken, N. Y. Cancer Authority, To Be Main Speaker.

The seventh annual meeting of the Sheffield Clinic of the Georgia Baptist hospital will be held in the Sheffield auditorium at 2 o'clock Friday. Dr. George H. Semken of the Knickerbocker hospital, New York city, outstanding authority on cancer, will be the principal speaker, according to W. D. Barker, superintendent of the Georgia Baptist hospital.

The clinic was established in 1934 and then Dr. Semken was present and was the speaker. Since that time the clinic has grown and during its second year it was necessary to enlarge its facilities. In November, 1938, the clinic was moved into new quarters, now known as the Sheffield auditorium, named in honor of its donor, I. A. Sheffield.

Dr. J. L. Campbell, director of the clinic, will make his annual report at a luncheon at 1 o'clock Friday. Officers of the clinic are Dr. O. D. Hall, resident director; Dr. C. W. Roberts, president; Dr. Hugh Halley, first vice president; Dr. Fred Rudder, second vice president; Dr. John Funke, resident pathologist; Dr. O. W. Tullis, resident roentgenologist; Dr. W. A. Kelley, secretary. New officers will be announced at the meeting.

By GEORGE B. ANDERSON.

"You're always talking about advertising," a woman said to me during a bridge game the other evening. "and I'll bet you can't even give me a definition of it."

Definitions? All right, here goes—and we'll put our favorite first: Advertising is the voice of business.

It is a business—and it's business is to sell. It sells through telling people about a product or a service. By telling enough people, it finds many who want and need the advertised item.

Advertising is a merchant, trying to make his merchandise desirable to somebody... desirable enough so that both he and the customer will profit.

In bulk, it's a passing parade of everything business can offer you, all wrapped up in cellophane words.

It's a word picture of what a merchant has that somebody else wants.

It's the most economical method of directing the greatest possible number of people's attention to a product or service.

It's a series of guide posts to good living.

Advertising is an economic force by means of which mass distribution and consequent mass production are made possible.

Advertising is the basis of free enterprise. It's many merchants trying to win your patronage by offering you inducements.

It's a never-ending course in personal economics.

Advertising is industry's recognition that, in this country, you have a right to buy the things you want.

It is the most economical method of reaching the buying public with a sales message—and the most satisfactory for both buyer and seller.

R.O.A. Honors Two Majors at Dinner

Resolutions praising Major Edward S. Byron and Major James C. Fargo, and adding them to the R. O. A. list of instructors "emeritus," were adopted last night as the two officers were honored at a dinner given by the Fifth District Chapter, Reserve Officers' Association, Captain John T. Carlton, president, presided.

The two majors, assigned here for the past two years as instructors for the organized reserves, have been ordered out of Atlanta and will report December 1 to Fort Jackson, S. C., preparatory to joining the staff of the new infantry training center, Camp Gordon, at Augusta, now under construction and to be activated soon.

Major Byron is a veteran infantry officer and Major Fargo, a widely known cavalryman, has been instructor for the 309th Cavalry, Atlanta regiment.

LeCraw To Drop Police Conferences

Mayor LeCraw will abandon monthly conferences with superior officers of the Atlanta Police Department, which he began immediately after he took office last January, it was learned yesterday.

Since the city council has turned complete operation of the department over to Police Chief Hornsby, the mayor believes that any further such meetings might be construed as an effort on the part of the chief executive to influence the administration of the department. He, therefore, has decided against any further such sessions, taking the position that enforcement of the law in Atlanta and the conduct of the department is in the exclusive hands of the chief.

PARK AT HUNTER'S AUTO STORAGE, ACROSS FORSYTH FROM RICH'S

Costume jewelry holds its own this season as a fashion favorite. Margaret Hayes, Paramount player, is shown here wearing a dressmaker type black dress with high white pique collar highlighted by a gold bulldog head.

Joan Fontaine wears a striking mask clip adapted from the mask make-up worn by Eduardo Ciannelli, villain of "Gunga Din." The wide lapels of her tailored suit form an effective background for the ornament.

Princeton Triangle Club Rates Laraine Day As "Girl of the Year"

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 19.—(INS) If you read this column—and I hope you do—you have seen the name of Bettye Avery, the pretty model from Oklahoma. She first was reported engaged to Governor Lehman's nephew and later she was seen at night spots with Pat Di Cicco. Well, Sam Goldwyn has signed Bettye and not for a small part—she already has had that in "Ball of Fire"—but for leads, if you please.

If I hadn't met her I would say Sam is exaggerating when he says that she is another Vivien Leigh in personality and looks. Only last week Sam got in the headlines when he signed Virginia Hill, the girl who spends money like water. But Virginia was just given a bit in "Ball of Fire"—and only in the one movie. There is a very strong possibility that Bettye will play opposite Gary Cooper in his next picture. So you can see the Goldwyn company is going to town on her.

Laraine Day, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's young actress, who recently graduated from the "Kildare" series into better roles, is one of the "Girls of the Year," according to both the Cosmopolitan Magazine and the Princeton University Triangle Club. Cosmopolitan has selected her for an article and a cover and she will be mentioned as the outstanding young actress of the year. The Princeton Club, founded 53 years ago by Booth Tarkington, has invited Laraine to come to the New York opening of their show on Friday, December 19, 1941, as the guest of honor. At a poll taken it was voted that Laraine had the qualifications most desired in a young actress. I would like to add—not only is she a gifted actress, but a swell girl.

Maureen O'Hara is due back on the RKO lot with "How Green Was My Valley" to her credit and added recognition as an actress. Her contract is shared by RKO and 20th-Century-Fox and she is now much more in demand than at any time since she arrived in America. Maureen will be starred in "One Hour of Glory" with Thomas Mitchell. It's the Mary Roberts Rinehart story and will be produced by Sol Lesser. Although Maureen is reticent about her private life and affairs of the heart it is generally believed that she will wed Will Price, dialogue director, one of these days. She married in haste the first time so she is taking her time to decide on Price, who is her favorite escort.

I have never met a more fascinating woman or a more brilliant speaker than attractive Vivien Kellens, creator of the cable grips. She was one of the honor guests at the ladies' press breakfast given by the Theta Sigma Phi and she held the 200 women guests spellbound when she talked glibly on technical subjects and then switched to equal rights for women in the business world. I was glad to be included among the speakers and to be asked to talk on motion picture scoops, even though it meant getting up at the crack of dawn on Sunday.

You'll be hearing about the Saturday Club very soon. A group of our movie folk, the Jack Benny, the Darryl Zanucks, the Ernst Lubitsches, Myrna Loy and Arthur Hornblow, Loretta Young and Tom Lewis, the Mervyn LeRoys and the Milton Brens are the founders and the plan is to give a dinner-dance once a month, the proceeds to go to the Children's hospital in Hollywood and Guy's hospital in London. The membership is limited to 160 and the cost is $12.50 per person. Sounds like the Mayfair Club of a few years ago—only this one has a purpose and will be kept strictly within the industry.

Elyse Knox, United Artists actress, models a new long jacket with wide, easy-sloping shoulders and a swingy drape. The beanie and handbag are also included in the pattern.

MY DAY: NYA Project Teaches Trades for Defense

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday.—Yesterday afternoon I went to the NYA resident center in Greenville, N. C., and was tremendously proud of what these North Carolina boys had achieved, for they built all of their own buildings! They have some excellent shops in wood-working, sheet metal work, radio, photography, etc.

Much of their work is, of course, done for the Army, because the training in every NYA resident project is with a view of making these young men valuable in defense industries as quickly as possible. The health program is stressed in North Carolina, so they have an adequate small clinic building with a few hospital beds. Every boy is given a complete physical examination and I was appalled to hear that somewhere around 70 per cent were found to be undernourished.

The little WPA art exhibit in the library was very charming. Some of the craft work done in the industrial school and by the NYA girls' project is very good.

I hope this afternoon to get a glimpse of the WPA art exhibit here. This year, art week promises to be a greater success even than last year. I notice that, in New York City, they have already sold several pictures, different pieces of sculpture and various things from the crafts projects.

Mr. Thomas J. Watson, a well-known businessman who has taken over the chairmanship this year, has been able to get the active co-operation of businessmen on local committees throughout the country. They have been able to stress the need of the artist to sell his wares, which is, after all, something every citizen must recognize. If artists are to contribute to the pleasure of our daily lives, they must also make a living.

After my lecture last night in Greenville, we returned home, for, unfortunately, the president of the University of Alabama, where I was to lecture tonight, was taken seriously ill, and they asked me if I would cancel the lecture. To find myself at home with two unexpected days of leisure is something really to rejoice over, though I am sorry the cause had to be somebody's illness.

I took life very easily this morning and did a number of things around the house before I went to the Office of Civilian Defense at 11 o'clock. I thought there would be nothing to do at the office, but I soon found myself seeing one person after another as fast as I could see them. I came home to lunch with Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt, who was in town. I am going back to the office for a few more appointments this afternoon.

Let Husband Set Pace of Social Life

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie:

I married when I was 16. I am now 25, and still love my husband and I think he loves me. By marrying so young, I missed out on a lot of good times. I never had much social life and I would like very much to go out some now and have a gay time. Do you think it would be foolish? We have no children and lead a very hum drum life. My husband says he is willing, but he is not keen on it. There have been so many marriages that have gone on the rocks from too much going out that I am worried. I am afraid that I will lose him and his love for me. What can I do?

TWENTY-FIVE. If you will just use a little common sense about the social life, I think it will work out all right. Don't forget everything but having a good time and going to parties. Take it slow and easy. Don't think that you have to be with a crowd every night to be having fun. Do not think that going out and having a whirl of good times is the most important thing in the world.

From your letter I think the best thing to do would be to let your husband set the pace for the social life. If he wants to go, then go along, but do not insist on his going too often or when he does not have the desire. Talk the situation over and try to come to some sensible conclusion about the social life. Why not try to arrange a bridge foursome at your own home? Or have informal Sunday night suppers?

AVOIDING EX-FIANCEE SOLVES NOTHING. Dear Dixie:

Four years ago I broke my engagement to a man I had gone with for seven years. Of course I had regrets, but as the months slipped by I met and began going with some other men, and my old love began to fade a bit. I lost track of him until about five months ago. Then I heard he was going to marry a cousin of mine in another town. My cousin wants me to be in the wedding. At first I thought it would be fun and I accepted. Now as the time draws near for me to go to the wedding, I just cannot go. The more I think of him marrying another girl, the more it kills me to think I lost him. Do you think it would look funny for me to back out at the last minute? Do you think my cousin would feel hurt? I just do not see how I can take it now. What would you do?

HEARTBROKEN.

If you faked illness to miss the wedding, no one would believe you. Why not tell your cousin that it will be impossible to come for the festivities until the eve of the wedding? That may ease the torture of seeing your old friend at so many parties or too often. It seems to me that the best thing for you to do would be to meet this old flame as though he were not some one to whom you were once engaged. Of course I know it is hard, but you had better go now and get it over with, for if he will be in the family, you are going to see him rather often. I imagine. Go on to wedding; let your mind rule your heart, and forget about him.

GIRL MUST MAKE ADJUSTMENT FOR HUSBAND'S CAREER. Dear Dixie:

I have been going with Jennie for four years. We have planned to marry after Christmas. I have been promoted by my company and am to be transferred to another city, effective January 1. I told her and she was thrilled for me, but lately she has begun to say that she is afraid that I am trying to walk out on her and that is why I am going to the other city. What can I do to convince her that I still love her and still want to marry her? After all, my job is rather important and I cannot give up a good opportunity. What do you think?

BUSINESSMAN. Jennie is acting very foolish. Ask her if she is willing to advance the date of the wedding so that the two of you can go to the new home together. Tell her that you had been hoping for the promotion and the advance in salary because you wanted more for her. Also tell her that you had depended upon her and her co-operation in your work, and that she, not you, is the one who has failed. Above all, do not let her persuade you to give up your promotion to stay with her. If you do, you will never advance in your business.

Today's Charm Tip

No one of us was born ill-tempered, nor grouchy, nor morose. These are developed characteristics for which we might just as well have substituted pleasanter emotions.

POINTS FOR PARENTS

Daughter: "You think it's all right for me to go, don't you, Mother?"

It is unfair to a child to send him off for a supposed-to-be happy time with a feeling of guilt about going.

Slenderizing Lines for Mature Women

By Lillian Mae.

Pattern 4874. Don't dress your age... wear a young frock calculated to slim you down! That's the advice of Lillian Mae to more mature women, and she offers Pattern 4874 as an example. The center bodice panel dips below the waistline in double points for a smooth-fitting basque effect. This panel may be emphasized by a tiny row of buttons and the embroidered flower transfer motif, or by making both the panel and the sash in back of a contrasting fabric. Lace edging is effective, too! Becoming fullness over the bust is released by twin darts on either shoulder and gathers at the short sleeves. The simple, graceful skirt makes for easy sewing; directions in the Sewing Instructor include those for the embroidery motif.

Pattern 4874 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 3 7/8 yards 39-inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins for this Lillian Mae Pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

The merry-go-round of holiday time is fast approaching, so order the latest Lillian Mae Pattern Book—and be clothes-ready! It's a colorful fashion success-story, with afternoon and after-dark glamor wear, with north and southbound sportswear, with distinctive "budgeteer" styles for bride-to-be girls, housewives and the younger generation. Smart gift-making ideas, too—and a special gift for you in a Free Hat and Bag Pattern! Book 15c.

Use Less Salt To Speed Up Reducing

By Ida Jean Kain.

So many reducing programs that are started in a spurt of enthusiasm are abandoned after the first two or three weeks because it is psychologically impossible to keep on being enthusiastic when you are getting nowhere.

Reducers who lose weight on schedule don't realize how lucky they are. The loss of three to five pounds during the first two weeks of a diet is all the encouragement anyone needs to continue.

But those of you who can lose only a pound or so—and some of you not even that—much—are apt to conclude that you are constitutionally fat.

But you are not. The apparent failure to lose weight on a diet is caused by just one thing: storage of water in the tissues, which prevents registration of the loss. Actually, you are reducing your weight. You can't help reducing on a diet that is low in calories.

Going on a diet does not change your requirements. Your body keeps right on using the same number of calories as usual. When these energy units are not supplied in food, they will be drawn from your stored fat.

Figure out your calories deficit. Let's say your daily reducing menus are 600 calories below your normal requirement. Multiply the 600 by the number of days you have followed the menus. Then divide by 4,000—that's the number of calories it takes to make a pound. If you have drawn on your stored fat for four pounds, you have in reality lost that much weight.

You can always account for your diet. What you can't account for is the storage of water in the tissues as weight is lost. Sometimes this occurs at the beginning of your program, sometimes later when things have been going smoothly. One young woman went on a diet of 1,500 calories and her weight remained exactly where it had been on a 2,300 calorie intake. The 800 calorie deficit did bring about an abrupt drop in weight during the first two days but for the next 10 days the scales didn't budge. Suddenly, she began losing again and the scales registered to the pound all the weight that should have been lost over the entire period.

Water retention can't go on forever. Usually it lasts less than a week. But if you are in danger of becoming discouraged there are two things you can do about it. One is to cut down on your salt intake, for salt tends to hold water in the tissues. Never resort to food after it is on the table. The other is to shift over to the high protein menus, for a high protein intake helps to prevent water storage.

Send large, stamped return envelope to Ida Jean Kain, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga., for the "High Protein Diet."

Atlanta Bridge Foursome Adopts Young British Girl

By SALLY FORTH.

THOUGH Mrs. Sam Johnson, Marion Dean, Mrs. Goodloe Yancey and Mrs. Jack Pierson have played bridge together once a week for almost 15 years, their thoughts are by no means all for pleasure and diversion. For at intervals throughout the years, the foursome has, between rubbers, discussed and adopted some worth-while charity to which they have contributed their time, efforts and money. Their latest project is the adoption of a little British girl, whom they call their godchild, and who, though not an orphan, has a very ill father and a mother who is constantly having to move her family to another address because of German bombs.

The little girl, who is 11 years old, is known to her Atlanta godmothers as Lillian Fiddes, No. 4923. The idea of her adoption was suggested by Marion Dean, who became so interested in the British children that some time ago she undertook the support of two of them. The adoption itself was arranged through the Save the Children Federation of the British Child Aid, whose New York address is Metropolitan Tower, 1 Madison avenue. Lillian's home is Gateshead, and, in addition to the money from her foster mothers which insures her food and plenty of milk to drink, they send her warm clothing, toys and presents—in fact, just anything that a child of 11 normally needs and expects.

Recently the Atlantans received a letter from the Aid, with which was inclosed a most appreciative note from Lillian's mother. "I wish to convey to you my grateful thanks for the clothes I have received for my daughter," she wrote. "She is very well pleased with them and they suit her very well, and they have been a great help to me, as my husband has been ill for a long time."

The federation's letter said that if the godmothers would like to write to their adopted daughter, they would please be kind enough to send their letters through the federation office, plainly marked with the child's name and adoption number, adding that, in most cases, the address of the child had been omitted from the data sent, due to frequent changes in location caused by bombing.

The letter closed with an urgent appeal to help bring the cause of British youth to the attention of others, for the organization has been asked to care for 13,000 additional children. Perhaps there are other bridge foursomes who would like to adopt a child before Christmas in order that Santa Claus might find his way to war-besieged England, via the U. S. mail bag.

THE ANNUAL grid-iron clash between the freshman teams of Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia is beginning to have all the earmarks of a social occasion, as well as a charitable one!

The reason is that a great many football fans have announced their intentions of entertaining at "parties" for the event. Among them is Sally Pat Connolly, Judge and Mrs. Virlyn Moore's pretty young daughter, who has invited 20 of her friends to attend the game as her guests!

According to custom, the game will be played at Grant Field on Thanksgiving afternoon (November 27 in this state, if you should happen to be confused). As you probably know, the proceeds will benefit the Scottish Rite hospital.

This always is the one game of the year when no free tickets are distributed, not even to reporters "covering" the event! Sally hears that the sports editors of the two Atlanta newspapers already have purchased two of the largest blocks of tickets sold to single customers!

LOVELY Bunny Stripling, who attends St. Mary's College in Raleigh, will observe Thanksgiving today, in order to attend the Yale-Harvard football game in Cambridge, Mass., on Saturday.

Massachusetts, you see, celebrates Thanksgiving on November 20, consequently Bunny will attend the annual dances in conjunction with the football game as guest of Louis Roney, of Winter Park, Fla., who is a senior at Harvard.

Word has just been received here that Bunny has been named art editor of the school annual, a distinct honor, which

Club Secretary Announces Plans For Formal Debut

Interesting among social announcements of today is the list of the youthful belles and matrons who will assist at the reception at which Mrs. Mercer Poole will formally introduce to society her daughter, Miss Margaret Peavy, popular secretary of the Debutante Club.

The affair will be held at the Piedmont Driving Club on Tuesday afternoon, November 25, and will assemble a large group of the married and unmarried social contingents to meet the lovely debutante.

Receiving the cards at the door will be Misses Katherine Poole, sister of the honor guest; Anne Warren, Wingfield Ellis and Helen Hopkins.

Mrs. Poole and her daughter will form the receiving line, and assisting in entertaining will be Messdames J. P. Garlington, T. R. Garlington, Willie Van Winkle, Ed Medlock and K. E. McIntosh.

Presiding at the punch bowls will be Mrs. Edwin S. Byrd Jr., Mrs. John Cherry, Miss Shirley Coppedge and Miss Alice Mitchell.

Luncheon Planned For Mrs. Glenn

Mrs. Thomas J. Woods has planned a bridge-luncheon for 1 o'clock on Friday in compliment to a lovely recent bride, Mrs. Wilbur Fiske Glenn. The party will be held at the Candler hotel in Decatur and will assemble 35 guests to meet Mrs. Glenn.

Assisting Mrs. Woods in entertaining will be Mrs. T. H. Jones, Mrs. Arnold Gay and Mrs. Dannelly Logue.

Before her recent marriage Mrs. Glenn was Miss Hilda Donnon, of Sumner, Ga.

Mrs. Woods' guests will include Messdames Craig Sheppard, Russell Smith, W. S. Williams, Arthur J. Kunzer, Walter F. Candler, A. H. English, Frank Manning, Jim Hayes Jr., John Moore, Andrew Robertson, William H. Russell, M. T. Davis, W. E. Burford, W. B. Hean, E. B. Moore, Herman Martin, Garnette Wood, W. S. Murphy, W. S. Canon, Alton Tribble, Harold Ross, Don Washington, Eugene Jackson, Guy Halston, Walter Anderson and Miss Charity Wells.

Howell-Mote Wedding Told

Miss Kathleen Howell became the bride of Donald Mote, both of Atlanta, recently at Park Avenue Baptist church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. L. E. Smith.

The bride was accompanied to the altar by Miss Gwendolyn Mote, maid of honor and sister of the groom. Paul Tate was best man.

The bride was lovely in blue with brown accessories and a shoulder spray of carnations. She is the daughter of Mrs. E. W. Howell, of Copperhill, Tenn. The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Mote, of Atlanta.

testifies to the artistic ability of the popular college belle.

HAVE YOU HEARD? That Jane Haley's birthday present from her parents is a trip to Princeton, N. J., next weekend, where she will attend the Triangle Club performance and dance Friday evening. . . . MISS CAROLYN REED.

Miss Carolyn Reed Bows At Driving Club Reception

A large silver cloth, studded with pink gladioli and orchids, formed an effective and unusual background for Miss Carolyn Reed when she made her bow to society last evening at an elaborate reception given at the Piedmont Driving Club by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Clinton S. Reed.

The lovely debutante and her parents formed the receiving line and stood at the eastern end of the ballroom. The large fan centered an arrangement of palms and ferns, amid which were placed quantities of bouquets and baskets of flowers sent the attractive debutante by her many admiring friends. The large columns ranging the length of the ballroom were entwined with ropes of smilax. The orchestra stand was banked with low arrangements of greenery and at each end was a white standard topped with white flowers.

The buffet tables were adorned with bronze chrysanthemums and tall stems of autumn flowers and fruits to carry out the Thanksgiving theme.

Presiding at the coffee tables were Messdames Ross Brown, John T. Floyd, Steve Brown and George Fuller, and serving punch were Mrs. Forrest Barfield, Mrs. John McClelland, Misses Marcia Mansfield, Eleanor Turner, Lois Lyons, Marion Bell, Mary Hodgson and Betty Braumgart.

Others assisting were Messdames C. E. Rushin, W. A. Selman, C. W. Roberts, J. E. McQueen, of Savannah; Harry Malone, Leland Baggett, J. S. Reid, Robert Allison, Murdock Eguen and Marion Pruitt.

Jack Phillips, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Phillips, of Jackson, Miss., is ill at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. J. E. Pounds, on Avondale Plaza.

Miss Hostense Pounds left by plane for Houston, Texas, yesterday and will return on Sunday.

Dr. Gordon G. Allison will spend the weekend in Miami, Fla.

Mrs. Robert S. Pringle is visiting her sister, Mrs. Jerome M. Fuller, in Columbia, S. C. She was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Norman Ramsey, and son, Chris Ramsey.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Tomlinson and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morgan return Sunday from a fishing trip to Homosassa, Fla.

Miss Edith Pair of McDonough, is recuperating at the Georgia Baptist hospital from a serious operation.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Coney, of Douglasville, are leaving soon for Florida to spend the season at their winter home at Aripaka.

Social Affairs For Debutantes Announced Today

Parties continue to be planned for popular members of the debutante club.

Additional affairs for Miss Margaret Harmon, popular debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Harmon, include the open house at which Miss Josephine Sanders and her mother, Mrs. J. O'H. Sanders, will entertain on December 14.

On December 6 Mrs. Dan Sage will entertain at a breakfast for the lovely Miss Josephine McDougall to share honors on this occasion.

Two guest lists for parties are announced today.

At the luncheon hour today Misses Margaret Peavy and Josephine McDougall will share honors when Mrs. Ed Medlock is hostess at the Mirador Room of the Capital City Club.

Covers will be placed for Misses Peavy, McDougall, Margaret Harmon, Mary Frances Broach, Virginia Dulany, Mimi Pappenheimer, Clara Hewlett, Virginia Richardson, Sallie Cobb Johnson, Caroline Yundt and Mrs. John Raine.

Tomorrow Miss Peavy will be central figure at the buffet luncheon to be given by Mrs. Clarence Coppedge at her home in Brookwood Hills. Miss Shirley Coppedge, daughter of the hostess, and Mrs. Mercer Poole, mother of the honor guest, will assist in entertaining.

Invited are Misses Peavy, Mary Frances Broach, Caroline Yundt, Virginia Dulany, Margaret Harmon, Clara Hewlett, Betty Hurt, Marion Knowles, Sallie Cobb Johnson, Mary Hodgson, Josephine McDougall, Kecker Newton, Mary Ellen Orme, C. C. Proctor, Virginia Richardson, Mimi Pappenheimer, Betty Hoyt and LaRue Mizell.

Miss Mary Ellen Orme, popular member of the club, was central figure yesterday at the bridge party given by Mrs. Reuben R. Arnold at her Pace's Ferry road residence.

Mrs. Hugh Richardson Jr. and Miss Frances Richardson assisted Mrs. Arnold in entertaining the members of the Debutante Club.

Following bridge guests were served tea from a silver service placed on the dining table, which was overlaid with a Venetian lace cloth. A silver basket filled with yellow and white chrysanthemums and fruits formed the attractive centerpiece. Silver candelabra bearing white lighted tapers flanked the floral arrangement.

Throughout the other rooms were graceful arrangements of chrysanthemums and autumn leaves.

Miss LaRue Mizell, another popular debutante, was honored yesterday at the luncheon given by Mrs. Thomas A. Davis, of Columbus, at the Paradise Room of the Henry Grady hotel.

Colorful autumn flowers centered the table, covers being laid for a group of friends of the debutante.

Miss Peavy was honor guest on Monday at the small tea given by Mrs. Mason Lowance at her home on West Wesley road. Invited were Misses Peavy, Mary Frances Broach, Virginia Dulany, Margaret Harmon, Clara Hewlett, Mary Hodgson, Sallie Cobb Johnson, Josephine McDougall, Kecker Newton, Mimi Pappenheimer, C. C. Proctor, Virginia Richardson and Mrs. Mercer Poole, mother of the honor guest.

Mrs. Cofer Elected By Medical Group.

Mrs. Olin S. Cofer, of this city, was elected treasurer of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Southern Medical Association at the recent meeting in St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. John W. Turner, also of Atlanta, was named councillor for Georgia.

Mrs. Cofer, who is the immediate past president of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Fulton County Medical Society, has been councillor for the state in the Southern Auxiliary and has held numerous offices in this group and in the Woman's Auxiliary to the Medical Association of Georgia.

Others from Atlanta attending the convention were Mrs. Allen H. Bunce, Mrs. Heyward Phillips and Mrs. Herschell Crawford.

Miss Evelyn Crew Honored at Parties.

Miss Evelyn Crew continues to be feted prior to her marriage on Saturday to Frank Sule. Mrs. L. W. de Jarrette entertained recently at her home on Lanier boulevard at a crystal shower for the bride-elect.

Invited were Messdames W. B. Crew, Mable Terry, Victor Davis, E. O. Jester, Louie D. Newton, W. D. Pendergrass, Dan Mooney, J. D. Eskew, Raymond Walker and W. T. Tucker, Misses Martha Edge, Nancy Greenleaf, Dorothy Castellaw, Roberta Sprattin, Adelaide Humphries, Catherine Newton, Lois Crew, Catherine Crew, Charlotte Callaway and Catherine Wright.

Miss Crew was honored recently at a kitchen shower by Miss Nancy Greenleaf and a spaghetti supper by Mrs. E. O. Jester, sister of the bride-elect.

Mrs. Nathan Brandon as she will appear in the Hocus Pocus number of Junior League Folies on December 5 and 6. Her striking costume is that of a cigaret girl in the number.

Junior League Announces 19 Stellar Roles for Folies

Nineteen members of the cast of 150 who will take part in the Junior League Silver Jubilee Folies will be starred in leading roles as soloists and feature dancers. The names of the leads for the 14 presentation numbers are announced today by Mrs. Everett Richardson, chairman of casting for the Folies. The brilliant event will take place at the Erlanger theater December 5 and 6.

The Folies will bring to an Atlanta stage for the first time outstanding artists who have followed professional careers, several of whom have recently moved to Atlanta and transferred to the Atlanta League from other cities. Featured in the cast will be Mrs. D. D. Connah, a member of the Atlanta League, who for several years was a specialty dancer with the Schubert shows on Broadway and on tour. Mrs. Connah is cast in the title role, Millie of Martinique, in the colorful West Indian number, "Nice Going—Down Martinique Way." In this vivid tropical number Mrs. Connah will be supported by Dwight Horton, who will sing the title song, "Millie of Martinique," and by A. C. Raines, who will be co-starred with her in a specialty dance of the Conga variety, in which the entire chorus of 24 Chica dancers will take part.

Other well-known and outstanding vocalists who will take leading roles are Mrs. Frank Harold, lyric soprano; Paris Lee, baritone; Charles Hurt, tenor; Mrs. Winfield Jones and William Wyatt, tenor. Mrs. Harold, who has studied in New York for many years and who has appeared in concert and on the radio, will sing in the number, "Nice Going in the Fall," in which Mrs. Thornwell Jacobs Jr., a ballet dancer who followed a professional career in Boston before coming to Atlanta, will lead a chorus of eight in the Autumn Leaves ballet.

In the beautiful East Indian number, "Neath Eastern Skies, Mr. Lee will sing the solo lead and a trio composed of Mrs. Bickerton Cardwell, Mrs. Francis Mitchell, dramatic sopranos, and Bradford McFadden, baritone, will present a travesty on Mr. Lee's classic rendition of Shalimar. Mr. Hurt will be featured with eight elaborately sequined "mermaids" in undersea scene in which an illusion foredrop and unusual lighting effects give the realistic effect of a marine garden.

Mr. Wyatt will take the solo lead in "Nice Going—Goes Glamorous," in which he will be supported by a chorus of 10 glamour girls. Mrs. Jones will be starred as a blues singer and also as the dance lead with the Natch chorus in the Shalimar number.

Mrs. Robert Autrey will be the featured singer in an elaborate bridal travesty and Mrs. Joseph Boland and William Wyatt take the leads in the Rainbow number, which includes a beautiful waltz ballet.

Mrs. Thomas Gerding will lead in ensemble of 20 in one of the difficult routines of the show. Mrs. Robert Lorton and James Newton will be starred with the Gadabout chorus of 24 in one of the large presentation numbers, "Nice Going—Out With You," and Mrs. English Robinson and Tom Turbeville, in the romantic duet, "You've Got Me Going Round in Circles," will be accompanied by a chorus of 16 in a novel roller skating routine.

Four leading characters to be presented with a chorus of 32 slight-of-hand artists in which various tricks of magic are done as a part of a soft shoe routine, include Mrs. John Stembler and Mr. Medford Connally as dancers and Lindsey Hopkins Jr. and Jack Tway as pretidgitators.

The Silver Jubilee Folies are under the direction of Alfred Burke and Jack Kress. Mr. Kress arrived in Atlanta Tuesday to assist in the direction of the show.

Charles Morgan To Be Honor Guest.

Charles Morgan, British novelist, who will lecture at Agnes Scott College Friday morning, will be entertained at luncheon Friday in Rebekah Scott dining hall by officers of the three campus creative writing organizations: Poetry Club, EOZ, and the Aurora, literary magazine published by the students.

The student lecture committee will honor Mr. Morgan Friday evening at dinner in the Anna Young Alumnae House on the Agnes Scott campus.

The Agnes Scott French Club, headed by Miss Martha Sue Dillard, of Atlanta, will entertain Mr. Morgan at after-dinner coffee in the Alumnae House.

Mr. Morgan's lecture on "Imagination and Reason," is scheduled for 10:15 o'clock Friday in Presser Hall. The public is invited without charge.

Mrs. Roy Goree Fetes Duo of Brides-Elect.

Mrs. Roy Goree was hostess at a spinster supper last evening at her home on Highland View for two popular brides-elect, Misses Anne Suttles and Genevieve Stevens. Varicolored chrysanthemums were used as the decorations in the home and on the table in the dining room. A limited number of friends were present.

Miss Suttles will marry Jamie Roberts, of Rome, on Thanksgiving Day, and Miss Stevens will become the bride of Lieutenant Bruce Bailey on November 29.

Surplus Food Program Seen As U. S. Stabilizer

American farmers were told yesterday that surplus food distribution by the government will play a major role in helping to readjust production to normal after the present war and the "inevitable slack in employment as the focus of industrial production switches from war materials to peace needs."

Roy F. Hendrickson, surplus marketing administrator, in a speech to the National Fertilizer Association, meeting in the Biltmore hotel, cautioned against discounting the importance of the distribution agencies.

"They can greatly help farmers in readjusting production, a job that may be painful in the extreme," he said.

To Avert Mistake. "They will help, if adequately financed and supported, to keep a floor under the nation's physical health, and assist in keeping the nation from repeating a recently revealed mistake—neglect of our health to a point where nearly one-half of the young men drafted could not meet the physical fitness test."

Hendrickson mentioned in particular the government's program of free school lunches and distribution of food through the food stamp plan. He also cautioned agriculture against overconfidence.

"In the present emergency," he said, "overconfidence should be given a holiday. Far too few people appear to be fully aware of the extreme difficulty of reaching the 'objective agreed upon—to break Hitler's tyranny.'"

Maddox Pay Claim May Be Contested

The county board of commissioners yesterday received a recommendation from its legal department that it contest in the courts a claim for $15,000 in back salary filed by G. Allen Maddox, chief probation officer.

Maddox' claim was based on a decision which declared illegal salary cuts put into effect by the commissioners during the depression. The supreme court ruled that salaries of persons employed under an act of the legislature could not be reduced during their term of office.

Many courthouse officials, including several judges, already have recovered back pay under this decision.

ADDRESS FERTILIZER MEN—Charles J. Brand, left, executive secretary and treasurer of the National Fertilizer Association, and Roy F. Hendrickson, surplus marketing administrator, were principal speakers as the association closed a three-day convention at the Biltmore hotel yesterday. Hendrickson spoke on "Food in Peace and War." He warned against overconfidence.

lend-lease expenditures for farm products. Another $500,000,000 will be spent by the end of February, and a third $500,000,000 has already been pledged "in a sense," he added.

Hendrickson pointed out that 1,600,000,000 pounds of agricultural products—much of it in the form of concentrated foodstuffs—was sent to Britain before October 1. These supplies, he said, would form a solid line of freight cars more than 250 miles long.

Dairy Products Lead. Dairy and poultry products led the list of exported goods, with 10,600 carloads shipped to the British. Also included were 5,000 carloads of pork and 5,500 carloads of dried and canned fruits and vegetables.

T. E. Millman, of the Office of Price Administration, also spoke yesterday. He told the group fertilizer prices are lower now than most other commodities a farmer can buy.

He also announced the appointment of John E. Sanford, of Atlanta, on an industry committee to consult with government officials on emergency matters affecting next year's crops.

Howerton Choral To Entertain Fort

Howerton Female Choral will present its fourth program for the Fort McPherson soldiers at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the Fort's recreation center.

Under direction of Edgar Howerton, the 20 girls and Sergeant Ben Bell will offer a wide variety of selections. Featured choral numbers include "The Desert Song," "On the Road to Mandalay," and "God Bless America."

Sergeant Bell will sing "Short-nin' Bread" and "Ole Man River."

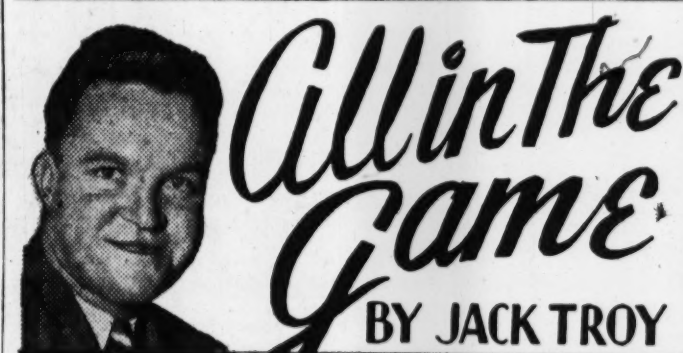

Miss Lourene Timmons, lyric soprano; Miss Kathleen Ivy, blues singer; and Miss Ruth Hendon, soprano, are other soloists.

A Repeater FRYING PAN GAP, CHATTAHOOCHEE NATIONAL FOREST, Ga., Nov. 19.—Verne Kastner spent most of his time the first two days of the wilderness hunt in trying to help somebody else get a deer.

But today, by starlight, he went out on his own and before the sun had climbed to the top of the ridges, he had bagged a buck.

So Kastner, son-in-law of old John LaPrade, became the only repeater on the wilderness hunt. He got a buck last year. Paul King, of Cartersville, repeated on the main hunt.

Before leaving his home in Clarksville, Kastner made a few modest wagers he would bring back another deer. A fellow has to be a real hunter to make good on such a proposition. For the odds against him are 12,000 acres and some 20 square (mountain) miles.

On top of that, feed is widely scattered. All the acorns are gone and it is generally believed the bucks are helping themselves to the farmers' crops of a night. They might even jump a fence or three in the daytime.

But naturally Kastner couldn't wait in a truck garden for a buck. What he did the first two days was to observe very closely places along the ridges the bucks were using—and then he went back and got his.

Any other system in deer hunting is purely hit and miss—and mostly miss.

Never Again I definitely am swearing off deer hunting. It came about this morning. One whole day I hunted hard in a sitting position around Stover creek.

On my stand there were fresh signs of almost everything that roams the forest—deer, hogs, turkey, wildcat, fox, and even some scratchings that resembled the cock grouse.

But nothing showed up except a skunk. This morning, however, Clint Davis was riding by in a station wagon and saw a six-point buck trotting down the very trail I used that day.

"I could have shot him from the car—if I'd had a gun with me," Davis declared.

And then there was yesterday. John Martin, Forest Ranger H. O. Mills and I had been over at Woody's lake and Lake Winfield Scott scouting for ducks that weren't there, and on the ride back to the wilderness camp we were talking about grouse and the small likelihood of ever seeing one.

We'd hardly begun the conversation when I glanced in some underbrush along the side of the road and saw a big fellow standing there. We stopped the car and got out, and we walked almost within hand-shaking distance before

Last 200 Seats On Sale Today

An additional 200 tickets, made possible by the erection of some temporary stands, for the Tech-Georgia varsity football game November 29 will be placed on sale this morning at Muse's.

The tickets are general admission and are positively the last to be had. In fact, without the erection of the new temporary stands, they wouldn't be on sale.

First come, first served at Muse's.

Bowling

BOWLS 182 GAME.

Bill Hargrave, bowling with the N. A. C. A. team of the Gate City League, bowled one of his highest games in long time when he threw in a count of 162 Tuesday night. His other games were 118 and 114, giving him a nice set of 392. Lowry Whitehead had a set of 131, 135, 106-372 to continue his good scoring. Team winners were Huley Canby Shop 3; Engineer Contractors 2; N. A. C. A. 3 and Walnut Transfer 2.

Lowry Whitehead has had a phenomenal streak of good bowling for the past 10 days. Starting with his 1,235 for 10 games in the Southern (which he won) Saturday, November 8, he has had 618 for five games in the last Saturday doubles match; the above mentioned 372 set in the Gate City League and a set of 254 in the City League—an overall average of almost 124, which is exceptionally good bowling in Atlanta. It is just possible that his coming trip to Washington, D. C., in which he will participate in the eleventh annual Dixie classic, will be highly productive. Of course he will be competing against the "cream of the crop" because this tournament draws all of the stars with its attractive prize list totaling over $2,000.

In the Ladies City League Catherine Murray sparked her team, "Cutters," to a three-way win over Chamberlain-Weatherstrip. Her set was 308, which included a had game of 84 or would have been much higher, after her starting game of 120.

Henry Hope, of the Westminster Presbyterian team in the Bible Class League, led the way to a three-game win over Vanguard Class by throwing in a set of 338, which included games of 104, 117 and 117. Grace Methodist also took three from Holland Class; St. Marks "A" won two from Decatur Presbyterian and First Baptist Builders won two from Capital View Presbyterian.

County board of commissioners will be urged not to abandon plans for two proposed airports, one on private property near Fairburn, and the other on county property near Gordon road, Courtland Gilbert, secretary of the Planning Commission, said yesterday. Gilbert said the board should now prepare for the tremendous expansion in air transportation anticipated in the next decade.

CHRISTMAS LIGHTS. GRIFFIN, Ga., Nov. 19.—Griffin will have its Christmas lights in the uptown section during the season, even if the regular source of power is not available due to the power "blackout." The merchants' committee of the Chamber of Commerce announces that arrangements had been completed with a large industrial plant to furnish the power for the lights. The company has a large steam generator.

Georgia Given High Ranking For Bowl List

Officials Not Worried Over Records, But Want Drawing Card.

By JOHN WILDS.

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Orange Bowl promoters won't quibble about regular-season records if they can line up two colorful teams for the New Year's Day football game.

The scant supply of undefeated eligibles, remaining from a giant-killing season, is almost certain to be cornered by bigger and richer bowls.

One committeeman said the Orange Bowl would be sold as no championship encounter, but rather as a spectacular show.

"We aren't going to worry too much about picking a team that has been beaten," he said. "You know, people forget early-season games anyway, and they're inter-

Tide Favored To Trip Vandy In 'Title Scrap'

System Likes Alabama, But Warns Vandy Passing May Win.

By PAUL B. WILLIAMSON.

Both Georgia Tech and Georgia will be favorites in games this weekend.

Georgia, with a rating of 92 in the Williamson System, ranks well ahead of Dartmouth (88.1) in their intersectional battle at Athens.

Tech, at 90.6, is several points in front of Florida (86.7) in the clash at Gainesville.

In the game which might decide the Southeastern conference title, Alabama will be favored to trim Vanderbilt at Nashville. The Tide is listed at 95.3 and Vandy, 93.6.

The System picks Alabama, but the Crimson Tide may have too much to handle when the Commodores start throwing the ball around.

City Basketball

DIXIESTEEL VS. CAFE. Dixiesteel and Central Cafe's clash at 8:30 o'clock is expected to be the highlight of tonight's Waltham City Basketball League program at Warren Sports Arena.

Both teams came through with victories in last week's games and the winner of tonight's clash will move on to the final round of the tournament. The Dixiesteel team, coached by Coach M. J. Central, will have an even stronger team tonight than it did in the first round, having defeated Georgia Power, having added Red Pitman and Tarzan Bloodworth to its roster.

Four Square, loser to Dixiesteel, will attempt to break into the victory column tonight. Royal Crown fell before Dixiesteel in the first round, while Jonesboro whipped Gasco easily. If an edge is given in this twelve, it will go to the Covington Browns.

Duckett Bags 12-Point Deer; Total Now 14

Gainesville Hunter's Fine Specimen Weighs in at 175 Pounds.

By JOHN MARTIN.

DEER LICK GAP, Ga., Nov. 19. Big bucks picked up their rocking chairs today and walked—right into the trophy rooms of Georgia hunters, who for the first time on this second hunt in the Chattahoochee National Forest were favored by the weather.

Heavy clouds hung over the ridges and coves of this game refuge high in the lower Blue Ridge and by noon four more bucks bit the dust, boosting the total kill for three days to 14. These were incomplete figures on the third day, as some hunters were still in the forests.

Early this morning Mel Duckett, of Gainesville, bagged the finest specimen up to this time. The big white tail had a perfect set of 12-point horns and weighed 175 pounds. He was not as large as several others, but appeared certain of winning the award for the most handsome head and antlers.

KASTNER AND KING.

Close behind Duckett were Vernon Kastner, of Clarksville, and Paul King, of Cartersville, with young four-pointers. Both killed bucks last year on the first hunt in the refuge and both, like Duckett, are members of the Georgia Wildlife Federation, in case fraternal affiliations are in order.

S. E. Gill moved the Atlanta average total to five with an eight-point buck netting 150 pounds. Earlier on the hunt, Bradford McFadden, D. H. Dowell, J. S. Cook and W. A. Mael had given Atlanta representatives a fast start.

When Sam Richardson brought in a four-point deer which dressed 85 pounds, he boosted the Washington, Ga., score to three out of a party of five. A. A. Marshall and R. S. Smith made kills yesterday.

NEW AREA TODAY. The second section of hunters were pitching camp this afternoon in preparation for their first day.

Pass Defense, Offense Is Stressed By Jackets

Team Leaves for Jacksonville Tonight After Final Practice Here This Afternoon.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

If Georgia Tech's pass defense isn't improved against Florida it won't be for the lack of practice.

A large part of yesterday's workout was devoted to defense against passes as thrown by the freshman team in a dummy scrimmage. The frosh were using 'Gator formations and quite often the aerials would click for long gains.

However, the Yellow Jackets have shown considerable improvement and will be out to stop the tosses of Florida's Tommy "The Red" Harrison.

PASS DEFENSE WEAK. Tech's pass defense has been spotty all season, which is the reason coaches have spent so much time on it recently. Almost every touchdown made against the Jackets has been scored on or resulted directly from passes.

The Jacket defensive line play has been satisfactory in all games, brilliant in some. But passes have wrecked numerous defensive feats. The team will leave tonight for Jacksonville, arriving early Friday morning. A workout is scheduled for Friday afternoon. The last Atlanta practice will be held this afternoon.

Although much time was spent on pass defense yesterday, coaches didn't neglect instructions on how to stop Florida's running game.

OFFENSE DRILL, TOO. After the defensive part of the drill, Tech's own offense, with passes stressed, came in for its share of attention.

It is becoming more and more apparent that the Jackets are going to throw a lot of passes at the 'Gators as it's hard for anybody to run through that tough line of Tom Lieb. Johnny Bosch is running well, but if he should be re-injured, little Davey Eldredge, the Miami lad, will shift to tailback as his substitute. Bobby Sheldon, who has been acting as Bosch's understudy, is on the injured list and may not see much action.

Eldredge has not played much at tailback this season, doing most of his work at wingback. He is a fine runner, but not as good a passer as Bosch or Sheldon. However, he has improved in his throwing and is expected to turn in a good job.

Almost three full teams will make the trip to Florida.

George Marlin, Vanderbilt Backfield Ace, To Start Against Tide

'Red' Sanders Sees Hardest Test for Team

Alabama Line Will Be Meanest of Year, Says Mentor.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 19.—(P)—George Marlin, the Vanderbilt backfield ace who played havoc with Alabama's offense for 56 minutes last fall, has partially recovered from injuries and is expected to start against the Crimson Tide here Saturday.

It was the plunging fullback who broke up more than one Alabama passing attack last year with interceptions and played an otherwise rugged defensive game. Marlin has been on the sidelines sporadically the past few weeks, nursing a complication of injuries. He worked out yesterday.

Coach Red Sanders, who said Soph End Everett Holt would not play against Alabama because of an injury, declared the Commodores would face "the meanest line of the year" in Alabama.

"We won't run up and down the field on Alabama as we have on other teams this fall," Sanders added. "And we won't push guys like Langdale, Hecht, Wyhonic and Olenki around. I figure we're in for our roughest afternoon."

In a long workout the Commodores divided time between defense and offense. For half an hour the Gold and Black gridders engaged in a full-speed scrimmage, with the reserves attempting to stop the freshmen.

Coach Sanders will give the Commodores a look at Alabama plays tomorrow.

Salls, Roberts Miss Heavy Tide Work

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 19.—(P)—The Alabama Crimson Tide moved over to a neighboring high school football field for practice today because of the proximity of its own gridiron to the hospital where Dr. Richard Foster, president of the university, lay gravely ill. (Dr. Foster died last night. Story on page 7.)

Fullback Don Salls and End Babs Roberts were kept out of the rough work because of knee injuries and Dave Brown, regular right half, continued to run at fullback. Brown may start at that position against Vanderbilt Saturday but both Salls and Roberts are expected to see service.

N. Fulton Splits Two With Austell

North Fulton opened its basketball season last night by splitting a twin bill with the Austell team at Austell. The Bulldogs lost, 29 to 15, but the North Fulton Girls won, 25 to 16.

Betty Dorman was high scorer in the North Fulton victory with nine points. The Austell girls were able to make only two field goals, so close was the guarding by the Atlantans.

Spalding Meets Elberton Friday

GRiffin, Ga., Nov. 19.—The Spalding High Wolfpack has lightened up on its drills after several days of hard workouts, in preparation for a game against Elberton High here Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

The Wolfpack will be hampered with several injuries and is up against a hard-fighting squad from Elberton, but are confident they can take the measure of the north Georgians.

teh grouse departed with the roar of a motor starting up. Later on, sitting in a cove near a branch, we heard a whine like a dog, and soon a fox flushed another grouse which lit almost in my lap.

It was difficult to resist shooting on a closed reservation. That's some more hunter's luck.

Buck Ague

Bob Edwards, Dahlonga, and Norman Perry, Atlanta, had unusual experiences with game on opening day. Edwards spotted a buck and in attempting to lower his gun accidentally fired into the air as the deer departed with a graceful salute of his white bushy tail. The great woodsman is having a difficult time explaining how such a thing could happen to him.

Perry, former Atlanta prep school football star, was a little tense as he moved toward his stand in an old apple orchard. Light was poor and Perry admitted he was rattled when a large wild hog got up almost from under his feet and crashed up the mountainside.

Perry, in fact, was so excited he ejected the shell from the barrel of his rifle instead of pulling the trigger.

Volunteer Chef

Ranger Woody has a concrete example of the bear's track that he swears weighed four pounds. The track, that is. The ranger made a cast and keeps it on record in the ranger station located at the gap named in his honor. But after Brice Ward, a wolf in chef's clothing, served pancakes for breakfast, nobody worried about the bear—they only worried about weight.

Ward, of Gainesville, didn't come to camp to hunt. Apparently he only came to breathe fresh mountain air and cook for anybody who'd let him get near a stove with a frying pan. He even shoved aside our chef, Clint Davis, who had been operating without either a union card or suit in the unseasonable November weather.

By noon, however, the hunters in our camp had forgotten the pancakes and tramped down from the ridges for lunch. They grabbed bowls for soup and dishes for barbecued wild hog without giving a thought as to who had been slaving over a hot stove to prepare it.

Finally, their aversion for food satisfied, they had the courtesy to ask: "Who prepared this delicious meal?" And as Ward, wearing a chef's hat and natty white apron, stepped forward, there was a great groan, and with one accord they rushed for the soda.

Auburn Tigers En Route To Villanova Contest

By THAD HOLT, Staff Correspondent.
EN ROUTE TO PHILADELPHIA WITH AUBURN FOOTBALL TEAM, Nov. 19.—Auburn's Tigers don't wanna set the world on fire; they just wanna win a football game. They'd like to begin by walloping Villanova in Philadelphia Saturday.

Jack Meagher and his fighting Plainsmen are good and tired of playing the enemy off its feet Saturday after Saturday and getting, at best, a tie.

Georgia beat the Tigers on the season's most effective and spectacular play, a long Sinkwich to Lamar Davis pass which clocked as the final whistle blew. Mississippi State broke oolose for two third-quarter touchdowns to rub out a 7-0 lead amassed by the underdog Plainsmen at intermission. Last Saturday favored Louisiana State, fought and played off its feet, managed to gain a deadlock with a brief second-half rally.

Auburn, improving steadily from week to week, has yet to win a major game this season.

"Maybe this is it," said likeable Jack Meagher, scanning a Philly paper for news of the Wildcats. "Only catch there is the fact that Villanova has had a season about like ours; lost several tough ones and has begun to move in recent games. They looked exceptionally good, our scouts report, in beating a fine Detroit eleven last Sunday."

Meagher would feel a lot better about Saturday's game if he knew for sure whether Clarence Harkins, triple threat back, could be of any real service. Harkins limped into the L. S. U. game and sparked his team's lone touchdown drive. Twice he placed kicks out of bounds within the Louisiana five. His leg still gives him considerable trouble and will prevent his starting against the Wildcats.

The Plainsmen will pause in Greensboro, N. C., for a workout Thursday afternoon at Elon College field. They'll drill at Shibe Park in the Quaker City on the eve of the game.

Auburn students gave their team a rousing sendoff tonight. The Tigers passed through Atlanta shortly after midnight.

Orange Bowl Gives Georgia High Ranking

Alabama-Vanderbilt Game Will Eliminate One More.

ested in the teams that are hot at the end of the season."

First choice is an eastern and a southern team, but some mid-western or southwestern team may be chosen to tackle the south's representative.

ONE TO GO DOWN.

Four southern teams are in the running—Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and Vanderbilt—but one will be eliminated when Alabama and Vanderbilt meet this week. Alabama lost an early game to Mississippi State, Vanderbilt was beaten by Tulane, and Georgia and Mississippi played a tie game and each was once defeated.

The boys from Annapolis were considered, but the Navy's attitude toward post-season games put a blast on that hope.

The Ivy League's dislike for bowls lends little encouragement for those who would like to sign the winner of Saturday's game between once-beaten Pennsylvania and twice-beaten Cornell.

Duquesne's unbeaten, untied eleven and Fordham's spectacular, although once-defeated outfit, are eastern possibilities. Missouri, of the Big Six, though downed early by Ohio State, has been sounded with, but no invitation has been extended.

The three Texas teams—high-ranking Texas A. & M., once-beaten Texas Christian, and Texas, tied and defeated—may be contenders for an Orange Bowl spot, particularly late-season upsets and the selections of other bowls change present alignments.

tomorrow when a new area opens. Nearly 100 more riflemen will be hunting through Saturday, replacing those whose permits expired today.

Observers predicted that with favorable weather 35 deer would be removed from the wildlife management area and refuge. Last year were taken by a smaller group of nimrods.

Quail Season Opens For Marathon Run.

Georgia's marathon quail season, the longest in the nation, will open today, and outdoor observers foresee one of the most successful campaigns hunters have enjoyed in several seasons.

Along with the season for bobwhite comes legal shooting of wild turkey in the counties which have not been open since November 1. The season on both of these upland game birds runs through March 1. The bag limit on quail is 15 a day, or 30 a week. Hunters are urged to insure a crop for the future by observing all the game laws and never cutting a covey down to less than four or five birds.

BASEBALL ENDS.

Athens Battles Gainesville '11' Thanksgiving

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 19.—Athens High's undefeated and untied football team, after its 51-to-0 victory over Hartwell, began getting ready for what looks like the toughest game of the season when it meets Gainesville High here Thanksgiving afternoon at 3 o'clock in Sanford stadium.

The game will be of great importance to both teams in the fact the winner will almost assuredly be chosen champion of the N. G. F. A., as neither team has been defeated in that loop. It will also be the last game of the season for both teams.

Athens, with victories over such teams as Rome, Dacula and Brunswick, has accumulated 189 points over seven opponents, 36 of them being made by Lee Bradberry, the Maroons' fastest and best known back. Bradberry has made some great runs, the best being a 56-yard touchdown jaunt through the whole Rome High team. He may be good, but right now he is having a fight to keep his first string berth.

Last Friday, against Hartwell, he sat on the sidelines while his little brother "Buck" Bradberry romped to two touchdowns and all the glory he could ask for. Incidentally "Buck" is only a sophomore and has three more years of high school play ahead of him.

Boudreau as Pilot Denied by Bradley

CLEVELAND, Nov. 19.—(P)—Flashy Shortstop Lou Boudreau frequently has been mentioned as a possibility to manage the 1942 Cleveland Indians, but President Alva Bradley reiterated yesterday that there's nothing to it.

Roger Peckinpaugh now is the Tribe's field chieftain. Bradley may move him to the top front office job vacated by C. C. Slapnick if it proves easier to find a new manager than a new executive.

Riverside Band Will Represent Big Green at Georgia Struggle

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Nov. 19.—Riverside Military Academy is co-operating with the authorities of Dartmouth College by having Dartmouth football game, feature event of Georgia's homecoming day, in Athens, Saturday.

Dartmouth Athletic Director William H. McCarter has completed arrangements for this and has sent Dartmouth's songs to the Riverside band for the occasion. "Men of Dartmouth," "Eleazar Wheelock" and other famous Dartmouth songs are being mastered by the Riverside bandmen, and the Dartmouth alumni will enjoy and join in their college songs as played by the Riverside band, which will share half-time honors with the University of Georgia bandmen.

General Sandy Beaver, president of Riverside, will be in the University of Georgia stands cheering the Red and Black, which he represented as an All-Southern lineman nearly 40 years ago. He explains that interest of his students in representing Dartmouth results from the fact that many Riverside graduates attend New England colleges.

THANKSGIVING IN SPORTDOM

The Football Coach.

I'm thankful in a week or so I'll get some sleep again. Without a flock of nightmares in to wreck each jumpy dream. And while we haven't been so hot amid the season's play, I'm thankful that we didn't meet that Minnesota team.

The Hoss Player.

I'm thankful for the quarter left, and for the shirt I wear. I'm thankful for the tips I ducked, as none of them made good. I'm thankful for the call I got around the early turn. Before my limping nag ran ninth, the way I thought he would.

The Princeton Team.

We haven't much to rave about along the season's beat. We didn't set the game on fire nor make our rivals quail. They hammered us by land and air, they battered us about. But here in happy Tigertown we're thankful for old Yale.

In Person.

I'm thankful for a dream or so that hasn't jumped the track. I'm thankful, though the oil is low, the motor hasn't stalled. And in a reeling, cockeyed world, against impending storms, I'm thankful for a pal or two old Charon hasn't called.

There Are Others.

Granting all possible credit to such unbeaten and untied teams as Minnesota, Duke, Texas A. & M. and Duquesne, there is also the chance of overlooking others which have been either tied or beaten, but which at this waning November count would be a match for anybody.

Heading this list is Michigan, with a line and a backfield that belong with any team you can name. Then there is Notre Dame, rigged out exceptionally with everything except backfield bulk or driving power. Others include Missouri, Harvard, Navy, Fordham, Mississippi, Alabama, Texas Christian and a few more. Tulane, beaten three times, is still one of the best. So is Texas, tied and beaten.

Outside of Minnesota, I doubt if you'd find a better line than Harlow has at Harvard. The Harvard of mid-November is far above the Harvard of early October. Certainly no other team has moved higher up. Missouri is in about the same position.

Schedules are so entirely different that any extended ranking list is completely impossible. Minnesota so far has turned in the season's best all-around job. But how many others would you like to pick against Michigan through the stretch?

Picking Winners
Attack—"I get a laugh when you football pickers try to tell how good your percentage is—how many you got right. Everybody knows that in about 80 per cent of these games the winner has only a push-over to meet."

Defense—"That's right. Look what a push-over Pitt was for Fordham—Baylor and Texas Christian were for Texas—Oregon State and Washington State were for Stanford—Rice was for Tulane—Mississippi State was for Alabama—and a few dozen others. One trouble with a push-over is that he refuses to be over pushed."

Asking Another One
Question—"I'm from out here on the west coast. I'd like to ask if Oregon State wins her next two starts, which seems to be in order, how are they going to keep the Beavers out of the Rose Bowl after they've beaten both Stanford and Washington, their two closest rivals? As a rule, we don't get many Rose Bowl chances up this way against California teams. But this time we are due."

Answer—"This seems fair enough—provided Oregon State can duck

PACKARD DIVIDEND

—Packard Motor Car Company announces a dividend of 10 cents a share, out of current earnings, on the outstanding common non-purchase shares of the company, payable on December 15 to stockholders of record November 15. The last dividend distribution by Packard was in October, 1937.

WILLARD MEN MEET

—R. B. Hutchison, of Atlanta, assistant district manager for the Willard Sturge Battery Company, was summoned to Cleveland, Ohio, last week to participate in a conference in Hotel Sturge there for the purpose of formulating a new advertising and sales program for the company.

Hutchison was called to the conference for the purpose of bringing first-hand knowledge of business conditions in the southeast and to advise as to insure the new program being framed to serve the best interests of that area.

Many other sections of the country were represented at the conference, which was addressed by Willard executives, including C. E. Murray, vice president and general manager; D. M. Allgood, director of merchandising; H. E. Evans, sales promotion and advertising director; and L. G. DeMotte, assistant sales manager.

AAP EGG SALES

—In a report on reduction of food price spreads, the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company announces that low cost distribution of eggs provides the chain's farmers-suppliers with nine cents more of the consumer's dollar than the national average, and has enabled the company to increase customer consumption of eggs 23 per cent during the past four years.

Robert M. Smith, president of the company's southern division, pointed out that the report was the second in a series on narrowing margins between prices paid by consumers and those received by producers. The first, issued in March and dealing with distribution of fresh fruits and vegetables, showed that growers and shippers supplying AAP get about seven cents more of the consumer's dollar than the national average for produce marketed through all trade channels.

DRIVE TO SAVE FUEL

—Methods of co-operating with the fuel conservation campaign to be conducted this winter by the petroleum co-ordinator's office was discussed at the annual meeting of the National Mineral Wool Association which opened at the Palmer House, Chicago, November 14.

In announcing plans for the meeting, Owen Morris, manager of the Atlanta office of Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corporation, made public a letter from Edward T. McCormick, deputy supervisor of civilian allocation in the OPM, advising manufacturers and applicators of mineral wool insulation that "we here in Washington are anxious to see all conservation programs continued, not only because of the possibilities of a shortage at some future date, but also because of the common sense behind conserving an irreplaceable natural resource."

Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corporation was represented at the meeting by Mr. Morris' associate, George E. Gregory, of Toledo.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP)—

The stock market in the final hour today halted its long stretch of stumbling and fumbling with a brisk forward sprint which boosted prices of many industrial leaders fractions to a point or more.

Rated by brokers as a pivotal factor in the turn after three sessions of aimless churning was the news from Washington that President Roosevelt in letters to steel companies and John L. Lewis had demanded a settlement of the captive coal strike by either of two methods: Having the closed shop issue remain in status quo for the emergency or by submission of the point to arbitration under agreement the decision would be accepted.

Improvement in the list, which started with the steel, lifted the Associated Press 60-stock average 3/4 of a point to 39.8. Transactions amounted to 800,960 shares compared with 678,000 the previous day.

Post better marks in an uneven curb were seen in Aluminum, Republic Steel and Pittsburgh Glass. Lower were Niagara Hudson Power and Aluminum of America.

Sugar and Coffee.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—World sugar futures advanced to new seasonal highs today on rumors of an upward revision in the sugar crop of the world.

Sales totaled 20,000 tons. Domestic futures also made new highs, closing 10 to 12 cents a pound higher than the previous day.

World coffee futures advanced 1/2 cent to 10.00 cents a pound.

Position of Treasury.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The position of the Treasury today was as follows:

Receipts: $2,253,231.42
 Disbursements: $2,253,231.42
 Balance: $2,253,231.42

Crude Rubber.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Crude rubber futures closed unchanged, no sale No. 1 standard.

Frontier U

Polly Makes a Landing Field For Heiress, Joy Boone

---By---
OREN ARNOLD

SYNOPSIS. Polly McMurray is a real "girl of the golden west." Raven-haired and bronzed from her life in the open, she is starting her senior year at Frontier University. On arriving at the registrar's office she bumps right into a tall and bashful stranger who introduces himself as Ken Palmer, son of Kenyon Thomas Palmer, Ph.D., the new president of Frontier, a struggling little school on the outskirts of Phoenix, Arizona. Ken has been granted special permission to become the only male student at Frontier. He has just received a telegram announcing that Joy Kathryn Boone, wealthy heiress girl, has decided to transfer to Frontier and is arriving in her private plane. Joy Boone is an American legend. Everybody has heard of her. She flew the Atlantic as a high school senior. She owned a New York night club, and her name and pictures are familiar sights in newspapers from Maine to California. The telegram announcing her arrival at Frontier instructed the college officials to have a servant dressed in Indian attire meet her at the university's private landing field. But there is no private landing field, and Polly decides to do something about it. She recruits Ken and her brother Ward to help her. Joy runs into a storm within sight of her destination.

INSTALLMENT V. "Polly, please. It's Pauline, really. But Polly is best. And listen Ken—nobody ever stands on formality in Arizona. It isn't like Boston out here, or New York. We give and take easily, with everybody on his own."

"I think I'm going to like that!" She herded them up another 600-odd feet, where they came onto the flat top of the ridge. Only a few knee-high cacti and pale verde growths broke the plane of red rock.

"It's like cement!" Ken said.

"Almost a dance floor," she said. "We have school dances up here sometimes," she nodded. "Right now we are going to paint. Look—start here, Pedro, and rake off all the pebbles and trash. You follow with a broom, Ken. I'll outline a big arrow, then you can use the brooms to help me fill it in."

Within an hour they had a gigantic white arrow there. It was nearly 100 feet long, pointed north. The three stood up finally, and Polly lifted an arm to point away off.

"Look closely, Ken. See the darker spot in Paradise Valley? That's home. My dad's Paradise ranch. It's 15 miles. Now look there to the left, the west. See the larger white or yellowish area? That's the Flats. See it?"

"The Flats?" He was more conscious of her nearness than the landscape. She had one hand on his shoulder, and the clean grace of her pointing arm was beautiful. Too, he caught from her a delicious, delicate perfume. He glanced quickly at his face. Her cheeks were wind-tinted. Lips were exceptional—but naturally—dark. Ken Palmer swallowed. His eyes lifted to the ebony ringlets of Polly's hair.

"There—you aren't looking, Ken!" She pretended to chide him.

"Uh, I see."

"That's where she can land. Her telegram said she expects a college landing field, Ken, and by rackety she shall have it!"

Polly posed with hands on hips, looking pert and saucy, chin up. "Lordy!" Ken Palmer breathed. His admiration was open now but Polly chose again to ignore it. She could at least keep an impersonal front, she told herself, even though handsome Ken Palmer set her heart a pounding. But it wasn't easy!

"The arrow is right near the big white F—see? She'll know what to do when she sees it. Pedro, you drag the things back down, there's a dear, and we'll hasten on ahead."

"Where to, Polly?" Ken demanded, brightly. Her enthusiasm was contagious.

Mr. Roosevelt was a little more cautious with his mimeographed optimism. He promised us two Thanksgivings for every turkey. This is Franklin's Thanksgiving. But turkey is turkey and I say with Shakespeare: let good digestion wait on good appetite and good health on both, while good old ma waits on everybody.

Baering Down on the News

By Arthur "Bugs" Boer.

While prosperity seems to be boondoggling with labor strikes I certainly am thankful that I am in America with a good juke box doing my singing.

"My definition of a democracy is a land where the folks eat as good as the Army. I'm not forgetting that Mr. Hoover promised us two chickens in every pot just before somebody stole the pot."

Grin and Bear It

By Lichty

"Yes, I know just how wonderful she is—I been pickin' up young fellers at her door fer years!"

imaginable. They sang songs. They had, in fact, a thoroughly pleasant time, until Polly suddenly remembered to look at her wrist watch.

"Ho-lee hades!" she breathed. "It's almost 5 o'clock! Her telegram said she was due at four, didn't it, Ken?"

That was true. They scanned the sky with new interest. Ward drove them then around The Flats and finally they got out to walk, ignoring the rain. Most of it was wind now, again.

"You'll catch cold," Ken told Polly. "I should have my coat for you."

"No," she smiled her thanks. "I never have."

After half an hour more they were all but frantic. The storm, instead of floating on off, seemed to have stuck here in southern Arizona. Clouds hung lower and blacker than ever before. The three youths dared not mention the danger they knew any airplane faced, but all felt an extra concern for an eastern girl supposedly flying to this rugged area alone. They stood together, almost in silence, waiting and hoping.

The tension broke when Ward's alert eye saw something. "Parachute!" he suddenly yelled. "Look!"

As if by magic a white chute had indeed materialized from one of the cloud formations. Moreover, it was drifting in general toward the three young people here on the ground. They started running. "If she hits on a cactus!" Ward cried. "Or even a mesquite tree!" (Continued tomorrow.)

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—Before 11:41 a. m. you may be filled with nervous energy, a desire to do things quickly, which can go into much aggression. Keep a careful check on your impulses. After 11:41 a. m. business activities and seeking favors.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—The entire day and evening does not especially favor new or important undertakings. An excellent day to stick to routine and finish those things already started.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—Public matters or dealings with the public, or where it is necessary to use diplomacy, are especially favored until 5:31 p. m. After 5:31 p. m. a feeling of nervousness may incline to mistakes and vexation. An excellent period to use caution in whatever you sign.

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER)—Before 12:32 p. m. avoid being hasty and impulsive. Use caution around occupational hazards. From 12:32 p. m. and throughout the remainder of the day, be ready to promote change, but aggressive action behind matters dealings with lands, and if you have some outstanding matters that are unfinished, try to complete them now.

July 23rd and August 22nd (LEO)—Greater gain will be attained by sticking to routine matters today. Remain away from things that are held in reserve, the day favors domestic, financial affairs, sociability and mechanical interests.

August 23rd and September 22nd (VIRGO)—The entire day will be one when you will find support and attain favors. Plan to go after the things you desire in finance, profession and business matters. An excellent day for making progress.

September 23rd and October 22nd (LIBRA)—This should be a very favorable day for ideas that start and finish now. Optimism or over-exuberance for the future should be curbed, and if these traits are held in reserve, the day favors domestic, financial affairs, sociability and mechanical interests.

October 23rd and November 21st (SCORPIO)—The day favors more attention to necessary affairs and ideas that have been hanging loose for some time. The day favors using diplomacy around older people. The evening favors domestic affairs.

November 22nd and December 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—An excellent day for writings, communications, changes, and adoption of a new viewpoint. An excellent day for contact with friends, relatives, and for seeking favors. The best aspects of the day operate previous to 5:10 p. m.

December 22nd and January 19th (CAPRICORN)—The day does not especially favor new beginnings, if you wish for smooth and steady progress. The day favors dealings with friends, relatives and general business.

January 20th and February 18th (AQUARIUS)—Previous to 1:38 p. m. will likely be an exciting time, when sudden demands will be made with startling force. Plan to exercise discretion and self-control, for change and flare-ups in speech or action are not favored. After 1:38 p. m. favors personal advancement, sports and dealings with people of a professional nature.

February 19th and March 20th (PISCES)—Should you have important work that you want to materialize quickly, this is an excellent day to attempt it, for you are likely to find that others have more favorable attitude towards you. The best aspects of the day operate before 4 p. m.

The United States Navy was so impressed with the words of Kate Smith, when she paid tribute to them over her mid-day program on Navy Day, October 27, they have reprinted her comments in various naval magazines and papers.

Ann Shepherd, diminutive star of "Joyce Jordan—Girl Interne," has just moved to another apartment. She says her old one, with penthouse facilities, did her no good because her friends wouldn't carry dirt up to the top floor for her potential flower garden!

Conrad Nagel, director of Columbia's Sunday afternoon Silver Theater, will be starred on his own show Christmas week. This has become an annual event on the four-year-old series.
